Hospital Cost Limit Called Health Hazard

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The hospital industry says Carter administration proposals to limit inflation in the cost of hospital care may be hazardous to your health. One industry leader, testifying Wednesday at a congressional hearing, said the proposals could lead to "arbitrary rationing of medical advances" that would hurt health care. But Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Joseph A. Califano Jr., testifying for the administration, called for curbs on "the voracious appetite of the hospital industry."

The joint hearings before two House subcommittees continue today.

The panels are considering Carter's recommendations to limit increases in the cost of hospital care to the general inflation rate, plus an allowance for improvements in care. The effect of the proposal would be to limit increases to 9 per cent a year at the current rate of inflation. Inflation in the hospital industry has been about 15 per cent a year. Califano challenged industry claims that imposing limits on hospital inflation would reduce the quality of care. "Many cost reductions can, if managed appropriately, actually increase the quality of care and put the obese hospital industry in better shape to serve our patients and health care system," he said.

Califano said the administration's program would reduce unnecessary hospital expenditures. Of the 240,000 empty beds in community hospitals, he said "at least 100,000 of those beds are absolutely unnecessary." In addition, he said costly and often unnecessary tests and therapies have increased rapidly in recent years.

Andrew W. Miller, president-elect of the Federation of American Hospitals, countered, "Community health needs cannot be determined in advance by a government-mandated dollar ceiling." If Congress approves a ceiling on hospital cost increases "then Congress will be voting to establish itself as the moral judge of the dollar value of increased lifespans, fewer fatal heart attacks, reduced infant mortality, significant survival rates for cancer patients and every life saving device or technique," he said.

Miller said the quality of hospital care has improved considerably in the last five to 10 years. He said cost comparisons are invalid unless they take into account innovations "that are now standard in many hospitals to save and sustain life." Several congressmen, agreeing hospital cost increases should be limited, criticized the administration's approach. Rep. William R. Cotter, D-Conn., said, "I'm for limiting costs. But an across-the-board limit is a bit too severe. At some hospitals a 12 per cent increase might be justifiable and at some others 4 per cent might be all that can be justified."

New Rules May Hike Phone Bill

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A new set of rules governing the state's 53 telephone companies is expected to raise the utilities' expenses, with the increases likely to be passed on to customers.

Among other things, the rules, which go into effect Friday, will make it more difficult for companies to cut off phone service to delinquent customers.

Adopted by the state Public Service Commission, the rules also will let customers change their minds about the kind of phone service they want within 30 days after they get their first bill and at no charge.

Staff members say that's an attempt to prevent phone companies — particularly Michigan Bell — from trying to sell their most expensive services and phone styles.

Bell has estimated the phone rules will cost it about $3.6 million, $1.4 million of which would fund more paperwork. Bell spokesmen say that cost will likely be passed on in higher phone rates to the company's 2.75 million customers. PSC deputy director Bob Nelson said phone companies showed "a lot of resistance" to the new rules when they were first proposed last year. But now, he said, companies have concluded they must live with them, if only reluctantly.

The new rules represent the first revision of residential telephone standards since 1944. They will be printed in new telephone directories and must be sent to all new customers.

Rules on service cutoffs provide that all phone customers be given 21 days to pay their bills. Five days later, companies may send warning notices to customers who have not paid.

The customer still has 10 more days to respond before service can be cut off. He may either pay his bill, ask for a hearing to dispute charges on his bill, or ask that the company work out an arrangement so he can pay off his bill, possibly in installments.

Other rules: —Bar companies from charging deposits, unless a customer left a bill unpaid elsewhere or tampered with phone equipment.

—Require companies to send to customers who order new service a list of all services available and their prices. Then, if a customer changes his mind, he has 30 days after his first bill arrives to revise his

APPLE TREE STOPS CAR: Benton township police said this car went off Empire avenue and traveled 500 feet through orchard before striking this apple tree on House of David property this morning. Driver James Taylor Williams, 30, of 444 Maple street, Benton Harbor, was taken to Mercy hospital where officials said at 10 a.m. that extent of injuries was still being determined. Police said accident was believed to have occurred about 5:30 but was not discovered until 7:15. They said Williams was alone in car when crash was discovered. Williams was to be ticketed for reckless driving, according to police. (Staff photo)

Lawyers Campaign To Junk No-Fault

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Trial Lawyers Association is reviving a campaign to scrap the state's no-fault auto insurance system and replace it with a plan that uses gasoline taxes to pay injured motorists.

The MTLA plan would end the requirement that all motorists buy no-fault insurance, in effect since 1973. Instead, some part of the state's gasoline tax — perhaps a penny or two per gallon — would go in a fund to pay medical expenses and some lost wages for all injured motorists. MTLA President James Logan said Wednesday.

Logan, a Detroit attorney, said the idea is being pursued because the state's gasoline tax apparently will be raised and no-fault has been "a lousy system." The association is looking for legislators to back the plan. Gov. William Milliken says the state's gasoline tax should be raised by two cents a gallon to help fund a $141.8 million transportation package.

An estimated $38.4 million could be raised next fiscal year by raising the gas tax. Negotiations are underway on exactly where that money would go.

"They're talking about using the proposed gasoline tax for a number of things, but one thing they're not talking about is using it to protect people injured on the highway," Logan said.

Critics of the no-fault system say it has resulted in more uninsured motorists on the road than ever before because many are too poor to buy insurance as required by the law.

"Now, a driver who is permanently disabled in an accident with an uninsured motorist can collect benefits from his own insurance company to cover his medical expenses and three years of lost wages. If he is killed, his family can collect the benefits.

But they cannot collect for his pain and suffering or additional economic losses unless the other driver was insured.

The MTLA proposal would recreate the Uninsured Motorists' Fund — scrapped under the no-fault system — to provide those additional benefits to permanently injured or killed motorists.

Motorists who do not buy insurance would be required to contribute a certain amount to the Uninsured Motorists Fund when they buy their license plates.

Before no-fault took effect, uninsured motorists were required to contribute $45 a year to the fund.

BH Commissioners Ask Firm, Swift Court Action

Seven members of the Benton Harbor city commission have asked the courts to act "firmly, fairly and swiftly" as result of a raid Tuesday that resulted in the arrests of five burglarly suspects.

The commissioners also commended the city police department, Dets. Bill Elliott and Tim Schuller in particular, for investigative work. The commissioners said: "The decisive action is appreciated, and we encourage prosecution to the full extent of the law."

The commissioners wrote to Juvenile Judges Ronald Lange and Donald J. Dick; Charles Kehoe, director of juvenile court services; and Hugh Black, chief district court judge.

The letter to the juvenile authorities said: "We are asking the court to deal firmly with serious crime committed by juveniles in our city. We request that you use all means at the disposal of the court and the juvenile services department to advise the community that juvenile crime will be very seriously dealt with, including waiver to a adult court when circumstances warrant it."

"This commission has adopted a policy statement requesting full enforcement of all laws, and we want you to know that our expectations of the court are that it will deal firmly, fairly and swiftly."

Two of the five suspects arrested Tuesday are juveniles at the present time and a third was a juvenile at the time of his conviction for participation in the 1973 murder of a Benton Harbor widow. He was a ward of juvenile court until 1976, when he was released because of good conduct.

The letter to district Judge Black says "We have asked our police department...to enforce all laws. We realize that strong enforcement is only the first step, and that strong enforcement must be backed up by firm court action."

"We urge your application of firm, fair and swift justice, in a effort to continue reduction of crime in our city."

All three letters were signed by Mayor Joel Patterson and Commissioners Mickey Yarbrough, Arnold Bolin, Michael Govatos, Tommie Parks, Norval Weiss and Edmund Eaman. Commissioners Mildred Wells and Alfred Williams were not present when the letters were signed.

Three of the suspects arrested in the raid and accused of being part of a burglary ring were arraigned yesterday in district court on a total of five charges of breaking and entering, one charge of unarmed robbery and a misdemeanor charge of assault and battery.

George Gonzales, 21, of 2463 Crawford drive, Benton Heights, demanded preliminary examinations on two charges of breaking and entering and one count of unarmed robbery.

Gonzales also pleaded innocent and demanded a jury trial on a misdemeanor charge of assault and battery on Edward Palmer May 4 in Benton Harbor. Gonzales was jailed

Ford Sees Record Car Sales

DETROIT (AP) — Henry Ford II, citing stronger than expected demand for new cars, predicted today new vehicle sales in the United States would reach a record 15 million this year.

The forecast by the Ford Motor Co. chairman is up 600,000 units from the company's last sales prediction made in February, and up one million from a forecast issued at the end of 1976.

"So far this year, industry sales in the United States have been even stronger than we anticipated," Ford said in remarks prepared for the company's annual shareholders' meeting. "With most important business indicators pointing toward continuing economic recovery, we now expect that industry car sales will total about 11.2 million units... while truck sales are expected to reach a new high of 3.8 million."

The hottest segments of the industry are domestic big cars, imported small cars and light trucks.

The record for most new vehicle sales in one year is 14.6 million set in 1973. That included a record 11.4 million cars. Last year, the industry sold 13.3 million vehicles, including a record 3.2 million trucks.

Third Berrien Escapee Recaptured

By LARRY MacINTYRE
Staff Writer

One of four men who escaped from the Berrien county jail April 23 was captured by police in Chicago at his mother's home yesterday, according to Berrien Sheriff Forrest (Nick) Jewell.

Arrested was James Watson (also known as Ed Blue), 24, formerly of Benton Harbor. He is the third to be recaptured.

Jewell said he was informed by the Chicago police department that two officers of the 11th Precinct tactical unit had arrested Watson about 3 p.m. at the home of his mother and brother.

The arrest was made shortly after Watson was spotted on the street. Jewell said Chicago police had been watching the residence since the escape.

He said he did not know the name of the mother and brother.

At the time of the escape, Watson was being held in jail on charges of larceny from a building and unlawfully driving away a pickup truck in St. Joseph Sept. 3 during an alleged previous escape from custody.

Still at large from the Berrien jail break is Oliver Hardy, 24, Kankakee, Ill., who was awaiting trial on a charge of armed robbery.

Dallas Martin Taylor, 30, Benton Heights, and Thomas P. Moore, 19, Medford, Mass., were apprehended within 24 hours after the escape. They were sentenced last week to one-year jail terms for breaking jail. Both are still facing other charges.

Jewell said it wasn't known if Watson will waive or fight extradition to Berrien.

It is the second time Watson has been recaptured in Chicago after escaping custody in Berrien county.

Watson escaped from an unguarded District courtroom last Sept. 3 and was captured Jan. 24 in Chicago by the FBI.

A charge of escape from custody was dismissed against Watson in connection with the first escape as part of a plea bargain. He still faces a felony charge of unlawfully driving away a pickup truck in St. Joseph Sept. 3 during his escape.

Before his first escape, Watson was in jail pending court action on a charge of larceny in a building — the theft of three CB radios from Village Electronics, Stevensville, Feb. 10, 1976.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Sidestepping To Lifting Cuban Embargo

For 16 years going back to the first days of the Kennedy Administration, the U.S. and Cuba have lived 90 miles apart from the Florida coastline in diplomatic and economic isolation.

Some Havana cigars sneak into the states by way of Canada which never did apply the cold shoulder to the Castro regime, but otherwise the only connection has been the Guantanamo Naval base which Castro wants to liquidate.

In more recent years feelers have emanated from Washington and Havana to warm up this deep freeze.

The Castro government misses the American trade and tourist dollar because his Communist bloc friends have not fulfilled their promises to fill the void created by the U.S. embargo.

Official Washington is coming around to the frame of mind that our country should make the best of what it can in the realization that politically Cuba will follow its brand of Communism whether or not Castro is on hand to see his countrymen do not stray from the fold.

A good many American businessmen privately are saying the same thing. They do not look upon trade as the strategic weapon the Kremlin considers it.

From this shift in ground has emerged the recent understanding with Castro about the newly declared 200-mile offshore fishing limit and a resumption in issuing passports to U.S. citizens to visit the island.

The latter developed from Sen. George McGovern's tour of Cuba. He brought along South Dakota University's basketball team, something less than an NCAA powerhouse, which graciously lost several exhibition games to some Cuban aggregations.

He had several talks with Castro from which he came away convinced more than ever that the Cuban leadership wants to shake hands once more with Uncle Sam.

Shortly following his return to the U.S., the South Dakota Senator introduced a bill to authorize unrestricted trade in raw and processed agricultural commodities, and medical supplies.

Except for sugar, Cuba is short on both items.

Despite some poor harvest years due to drought conditions and inefficient harvesting methods, Cuba is long on sugar. Other than tourism, sugar is the island's only exportable cash crop.

This week the Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted 10-6 to recommend a one-way U.S. sale of foodstuffs and medical supplies.

McGovern amended his original bill after running into strong opposition that if Castro gets the right to export sugar to our country, he will not listen very attentively to a full normalization of relationships between his country and ours.

The Carter Administration which has taken the first steps on fishing and tourism is taking a neutral stance on the restricted trade bill.

McGovern not being a White House favorite introduces a personalized influence and Carter's participation in the London economic summit is a possible indication the Administration feels Cuba is something of a lesser problem in world affairs at this time.

The only reaction from the Administration to the Committee's watering down of the McGovern bill is one spokesman's obvious comment if Castro cannot sell sugar to our country where will he find the dollars to buy American foodstuffs and medical supplies.

While more than a radar fix is needed to follow Castro around a corner, McGovern's amended bill is a gesture, not the substance from which better understandings are made.

By the same token, McGovern's skill in diplomacy is the type of band aid our country does not require.

Jumping in as he has in the foreign relations field is only one indication of that failing.

The sounder approach is to sidetrack the McGovern bill and let the Administration go into discussions with Castro toward the possibility of a workable, more comprehensive agreement.

George Wallace Still Trying For Washington

Five years ago, on May 15, 1972, George C. Wallace was shot and permanently paralyzed by a would-be assassin at a Laurel, Md., shopping center — a crime that apparently dashed his long-time hope of capturing the Democratic presidential nomination someday. But Wallace is not yet ready to call it quits. Under Alabama law, he cannot succeed himself as governor in the elections to be held next year. But while he has not yet made an announcement, Alabama political observers expect him to try to win the Senate seat now held by John Sparkman (D). Sparkman, who will be 78 years old in December, has not yet indicated whether he will seek reelection.

Wallace, then, could end up in Washington after all. Whether or not he wins, though, Alabama is moving toward a new political era. At present, Wallace's successor is expected to be one of a trio of relatively young lawyer-politicians known collectively as "Three Bs." They are Bill Baxley, 35, the state attorney general, Jere Beasley, 41, the first Alabama lieutenant governor to win two successive terms, and Albert Brewer, 49, a former lieutenant governor who served out Gov. Lurleen Wallace's term after she died in 1968. It once was thought that Wallace's present wife, Cornelia, also would enter the race, but the couple's well-publicized marital troubles apparently have ruled out her candidacy.

Out-of-state critics of Wallace may have thought he ruled Alabama with an iron hand, but this is not really true. "Like his Yankee counterpart, former New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller," Atlanta Constitution Political Editor Jim Merriner recently wrote, "Wallace has seemed more interested in running for President than in running his state." Wallace disagrees, naturally, and points to such achievements as the state network of junior colleges erected during his administration. The next governor of Alabama may be more or less diligent than Wallace has been, but it is a fair bet that he will be nowhere near as colorful.

LIMIT TERMS IN CONGRESS

Editor, While thousands flail the branches of evil, only a few of us practice preventive medicine by chewing the roots.

Standing eyeball to eyeball with proof that power corrupts and that eternal vigilance is the price of liberty will enable us to celebrate our Constitution's Bicentennial with confidence and ensure that our grandchildren will be free to celebrate our Tricentennial.

Self respect being the foundation for our social contract, at least half of us are qualified to serve in our Congress.

Amending our Constitution to limit the number of terms any one of us can serve in our Congress to three in our Senate and six in our House of Representatives will maintain stability, reduce the potential for corruption and improve the performance of our Congress.

Each of us can take control of our personal sovereignty and demonstrate our self respect by mailing copies of this letter with our personal comments to those of us we elected to lead us.

THEY SUPPORT BAN ON ORVs

Editor, The membership of the Michigan Fun Runners 4x4 club, heartily supports the Grand Mere association's ban on ORVs in Grand Mere.

As members of the Great Lakes Four Wheel Drive association and the Michigan United Conservative clubs, we are dedicated not only to the betterment of the sport of four-wheeling but also to the protection of our ecology. We also recognize and support the concept of private property.

As organized four-wheelers, we have property available to members of the Great Lakes

Four Wheel Drive association. This property is leased and maintained by the Great Lakes Four Wheel Drive association. It is not necessary for us to run on any private property. Any club member found guilty of doing so is at once dropped from membership. We do not condone running in Grand Mere.

Further, we wish it to be fully understood that those ORVs that are there on weekends are not members of the Michigan Fun Runners or of the Great Lakes Four Wheel Drive association. As a family-oriented group, we do not wish to be confused in any way with the wildcat four-wheelers who insist on trespassing on the private property at Grand Mere.

South Africa Now Willing To Accept Young

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite its misgivings, the South African government says it is willing to accept U.N. Ambassador Andrew Young for a visit next week.

But it took some diplomatic lobbying by the State Department to get South Africa to receive Young, whose statements questioning the government's legality have ranked some government leaders.

Young, a black former congressman from Georgia and close friend of President Carter, also has said he hates to have anything to do with the South African government.

The State Department said on Wednesday, however, that the way was cleared for Young's visit beginning May 21. It said arrangements for the tour "are still being worked out."

Indirect Lobby A Rising Power

WASHINGTON — When the common site picketing bill was before Congress earlier this year, lawmakers were inundated by thousands of postcards, letters and telegrams opposing the labor-backed measure.

The communications poured in from all sorts of people in every state of the nation. Constituents started turning up on Capitol Hill to urge their congressmen to vote against the common site legislation. Some were hometown business honchos, others ordinary working people.

A spontaneous popular uprising? Hardly. All that activity was generated by a coalition of interest groups here in Washington that had banded together to fight the bill. Using newspaper advertisements and special "alerts" to their own members, these groups stimulated such an effective grass-roots lobbying campaign that the common site bill went down to a surprise defeat in the House despite a massive, more traditional lobbying effort by organized labor.

Although the results are seldom so dramatic, much the same thing is happening with increasing frequency on all kinds of issues coming before Congress.

The National Rifle Association has long relied upon this type of grass-roots campaign to block gun control legislation on Capitol Hill. Common Cause has utilized such tactics with remarkable success to press governmental reform, an issue without a readily identifiable constituency.

And now, with the advent of Carter's energy program, much of the oil and gas industry is turning to this approach in an effort to convince Congress that it is the folks back home — not merely the wicked special interests — who want the industry to receive higher prices as an incentive for more exploration and production.

The Atlantic Richfield Co., for instance, has begun regular mailings to its "active employees" and its shareholders outlining company positions on energy issues and urging them to contact their congressmen.

The technique of stimulating others to put pressure on Congress, as distinct from sending a professional lobbyist to Capitol Hill to argue one's case, is known in the trade as "indirect lobbying."

Without doubt, it is the fastest growing element of the lobbying business. But there remains a real question as to whether Congress, in drafting a new lobbying reform law, will insure that the public can identify those who engage in indirect lobbying and learn how much such groups are spending to persuade others to bring pressure upon Congress.

Many trade associations and other well-financed groups which are turning increasingly to indirect lobbying are seeking to exempt such activity from the registration and reporting requirements of the lobby reform bill now pending before the House Judiciary Committee.

These groups argue that communications to their own members or newspaper and television ads aimed at the general public represent an exercise of free speech protected from government regulation by the First Amendment of the Constitution.

Surprisingly, the Carter administration is so edgy about their claim that Deputy Attorney General Peter F. Flaherty waived all over the lot when he testified about indirect lobbying during an appearance last month before the Judiciary Committee.

"We recognize that there are strong competing arguments on both sides, and the administration is presently studying it," Flaherty said.

Flaherty's hedging irritated House and Senate experts who have spent years working on the lobbying reform bill and believe that requiring organizations which stimulate others to pressure Congress to report what they spend on such efforts in no way inhibits their free speech rights to engage in the activity itself.

One thing is evident: Unless the lobby reform bill requires disclosure of indirect lobbying expenditures, it will leave a loophole larger than the new law itself. That's where all the action is these days, and the public has a right to know who is calling the tune and paying the piper.

Jeffrey Hon
Powerful But Vulnerable

MIAMI — I had been in Key Biscayne to deliver a paper on, perhaps surprisingly, Theology and Culture, and this evening, as my DC-10 jet airliner took off from Miami International Airport, it once again occurred to me that this magnificent aircraft is a kind of symbol — a beautiful symbol of the power and also the vulnerability of advanced Western civilization.

The DC-10 is a huge aircraft, almost as big as the 747 Jumbo Jet. It waited on the runway for a few moments, rolled forward gathering speed, lifted off smoothly, circled and climbed, the accumulating "G" forces pressing us back into our seats.

Below, you could see the row of sugar-cube hotels on Miami Beach, Miami itself, the Coral Gables Marina, the incredible blue water of the shallow Atlantic here, the necklace of Florida keys stretching southward toward Cuba.

The DC-10. So perfect, so incredibly powerful, but also so vulnerable to error or malice. Here are some of the ways the great passenger plane seemed a symbol of the West in the 20th century.

— Nothing like these huge passenger jets moving through the upper atmosphere at more than 600 miles per hour, has ever been achieved before. Other nations buy these things from us. They import our technicians and pilots at high salaries to teach them how to use them. Where advanced technology is concerned, the rest of the world, even the Soviet Union, simply is not in the ballpark.

— Like the advanced West, the passenger jet is democratic. The passengers aboard are as tonishing in their ethnic variety and variety of social condition. They provide a brilliant metaphor for modern mobility, both social and geographic. In much of the world, the individual has to ask permission of the police to move from one place to another. All these passengers had to do was purchase a ticket.

— The modern passenger jet, aesthetically, has a kind of perfection. Everything is cleanly functional. Mies van der Rohe, all you of the 1920s Bauhaus School of design, you should be living at this hour. Your aesthetic ideals have been achieved.

— But in its very perfection, the great jet is vulnerable. Relatively speaking, it is lightweight, its power contained by carefully designed and mutually reinforcing vectors. Nevertheless, a mistake, as in the Canary Islands disaster, or a terrorist attack, and the whole fragile, marvelous thing disappears.

There is analogy here with modern civilization itself. A rural peasant society is not particularly vulnerable. Its various parts are not interrelated in complex ways. It exists at a low level of civilization, but it is relatively stable. There is not much you can do to it. But advanced Western civilization is vulnerable. A brief power failure can create chaos. A political miscalculation can be catastrophic. An external attack, ordered, it may be, by some clown, some brum-mage mind from the steppes or from Central Asia, could bring the entire thing to an end, turn it into a twisted mass of horror.

N.Y. ADVERTISING AGENCY

Ex-BH Woman Partner In Firm

A former Benton Harbor resident has left her position as vice president of one of the nation's largest advertising agencies to become a partner in a new black-owned agency recently formed in New York City.

Mrs. Caroline R. Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Robinson, 381 Miller street, Benton Harbor, is a partner in the new agency Mingo, Jones, Guilmenot, Inc.

Before forming the new firm, Mrs. Jones was vice president and creative supervisor of Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborne Inc. She was the first black woman to ever become vice president of a major advertising agency.

She is vice president and creative director of the new

Her partners in the new firm are Frank L. Mingo and Richard A. Guilmenot III.

Mingo, president of the new agency, had been a vice president and management supervisor at McCann-Erickson Inc. Earlier, he was a senior vice president at J. Walter Thompson.

Guilmenot is vice president and director of client services. He was a vice president and account supervisor at BBDO.

The new agency is affiliated with The Interpublic Group of Companies, Inc., which claims to be the world's largest advertising and marketing communications network. Announcement of the new agency was made in New York by Paul Foley, chairman and president of the Interpublic group.

"These three principals are proven advertising professionals, bringing more than 32 years of general and black consumer marketing expertise to their new company," Foley said.

BH Manager Fires Development Chief

Alvin Chase, economic development director for the City of Benton Harbor, has been notified by City Manager Melvin Farmer Jr. that he has been dismissed effective May 20.

Farmer would not give any specific reason this morning for the firing, but said he did it with the "concurrence" of the city commission.

Farmer notified Chase in a letter dated May 6 that his last official day would be May 20. Chase has been working as the city's economic development director since he was hired in August, 1975. His salary was $18,000 paid by federal community development money.

ALVIN CHASE
Fired by Farmer

"This is just a situation where there's a new administration and there's bound to be some changes," Farmer said. "Many times changes have to be made, and sometimes just a clearing of the air is a catalyst for more active participation." Farmer was promoted in November by the city commission from deputy city manager to city manager.

Farmer said he had discussed the Chase termination with commissioners and received "no opposition" to his decision.

Chase said he had no comment on the dismissal.

Chase was the manager of the Eau Claire fruit exchange from 1953 to 1963. Prior to accepting the job with the city, he had been director of a economic development company for three corporations in Orange county, New York, for 10 years.

He said the Interpublic group will handle media payments for the new agency in the same way it processes payments for all Interpublic agencies.

The agency begins operations with an assignment from the Miller Brewing Co. Mingo, when he was at McCann-Erickson, was involved in the introduction of Miller Lite beer, according to Interpublic's announcement.

Mrs. Jones' account assignments in the past have included Burger King, Campbell Soup, Rusts of Puerto Rico, and Polaroid.

During her career, she has received numerous acknowledgments including Clio and Emmy awards, 1970 election to Foremost Women in Communications, and inclusion in the "Living Legends in Black" Bicentennial exhibit. In 1976, she was voted one of the "100 Outstanding Creative People in America."

She is a 1959 graduate of Benton Harbor high school and a 1963 graduate of the University of Michigan. She attended college on a $3,000 James W. Tiscornia scholarship and was employed by The Herald-Palladium for two summers during her college years.

She and her husband, Edward H. Jones, a native of Richmond, Va., now live in Manhattan.

Oldsters Will Get 'Own' Plaza Days

Fairplain Plaza Merchants association has announced special programs for senior citizens will be held at the plaza Wednesday, May 18, and May 25.

Activities will include lunch, entertainment, transportation and senior citizen discounts by various plaza merchants.

Julie Fine, promotional director for the plaza, said lunch will be served each Wednesday, 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., in the Knights of Columbus hall below Goldblatt's. Arrangements are being made by the office of Mrs. Ruth Brock, director of the tri-county senior citizen nutrition project. Reservations must be made on the Tuesday before each Wednesday by calling, 927-2495.

There is no fee for the lunch, but donations of 50 cents will be accepted.

Entertainment May 18 will be bingo in the Knights of Columbus hall with prizes donated by Plaza Merchants. George and Velma Diouard will organize and run the games. On May 25, there will be dance lessons by instructors Buzz and Dianne Pereira. Transportation arrangements are being made through Dial-A-Ride and the Berrien County Urban and Rural transportation system.

Julie Fine said the program is on a trial basis the first two Wednesdays and will be continued if participation warrants.

MSU Honors St. Joe Coed

Karen Pond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Pond, 4325 Laurel drive, St. Joseph, was among 61 Michigan State university freshmen selected for membership in Tower Guard, distinguished honorary society.

Miss Pond's name was omitted in a list of inductees that

Michigan State sent to Herald-Palladium. Names of three other inductees from Berrien county were published yesterday.

Miss Pond is majoring in engineering at MSU. She is a 1976 graduate of St. Joseph high school.

Parolee Charged With Escape

Benton township police said an escapee from a correctional program was apprehended, and three youths were charged with harboring a fugitive after a car was stopped Wednesday night. Arrested on a charge of escape was James William Ewing, 25, reportedly a prison parolee. Charged with harboring a fugitive were James Hudson, 19, of 999 Pipestone street, Benton Harbor; Ricky Britton, 21, of 1052 East Empire, and Jackie Saffell, 18, of 650 Crystal court, both Benton township.

Police said Ewing had been listed as an escapee of the correctional program since March 30 when he allegedly failed to report for weekly meetings with correctional personnel. Police said Ewing had been paroled from prison in 1976 to the correctional program that has offices in Benton Harbor.

He was sentenced to 6 to 10 years in prison in 1972 for breaking and entering the office of Dr. Donald H. Grow, at 925 North Euclid avenue, Benton Heights. Township police said the car was stopped last night on Beverly court, Benton Heights.

SJ Teachers Have New Chief

Donald L. Fredrickson, a woodworking teacher at St. Joseph high school, was installed Wednesday as 1977-78 president of the St. Joseph Education association.

Fredrickson had been president-elect since April, 1976, when he was elected by the general membership of the SJEA.

Other officers installed yesterday at the SJEA's annual board at Lincoln elementary school were William Bingham, president-elect; Diane Roush, secretary; and Nancy Schroeder, treasurer. They were elected last month by the membership.

Fredrickson replaces Roger Sexton as president. The new president added that St. Joseph teachers are currently in the second year of a three-year contract.

Also yesterday the association donated $150 to the Sarett Nature center. Fredrickson said the contribution marks the fourth straight year that a donation has been made to the center.

Woman Admits Welfare Fraud

Minerva M. Thompson, 29, of 520 McAllister avenue, Benton Harbor, was sentenced to pay fine and costs of $50 in Berrien Fifth District court Wednesday after she pleaded guilty to the misdemeanor of welfare fraud of $500 or less.

A felony charge of welfare fraud over $500 was dismissed by Judge Hugh Black on motion of the prosecutor's office after Black was told Mrs. Thompson had repaid the entire $1,021 she had received in ineligible ADC benefits, according to Asst. Prosecutor John Fields.

Fields is in charge of the welfare fraud unit in the prosecutor's office.

Fields said Mrs. Thompson admitted in court that she failed to report employment earnings while simultaneously receiving ADC payments from December, 1975, to September, 1976. She had been working as a cleaning woman, Fields said.

Mrs. Thompson was charged following an investigation conducted by Wayne Groenendal, a special investigator for the prosecutor's office, and by M. Lou Ferguson and Annie Spann of the state office of the inspector general.

Fields said investigations are continuing into other alleged welfare fraud cases in Berrien county.

Local Bendix Workers Okay Three-Year Contract

Union members at the Bendix Corp. Hydraulics division south of St. Joseph ended a five-day strike yesterday by voting to approve a three-year local contract 501 to 292. The employees were to return to their jobs at the start of the second shift yesterday which began at 3:30 p.m. The election results were announced by Dean Cortson, president of the 1,200-member Local 383 of the United Auto Workers. The balloting took place at Lakeshore high school.

The local went on strike last Saturday after members rejected by a nine-vote margin the terms of a local contract recommended by union leadership. The vote was 329 to 338. Bargainers for the local and the Hydraulics division met Monday and drafted a revised version of the local contract, according to Cortson.

In separate balloting Saturday, union members approved a master contract by a margin of 369 to 139. The master contract covers some 7,000 workers at 10 plants in five states. Terms of the contract were not disclosed pending completion of the ratification vote. A spokesman at Bendix headquarters in Southfield said yesterday nine of the 10 divisions had approved it. He said the company was still waiting ratification results at Troy, N.Y., where voting was scheduled yesterday.

Cortson said that his local had won some labor grade improvements over and above pay scales in the master contract. He said he believed the first version of the local contract was rejected because some members were unhappy with the way the improvements were apportioned in the plant. He said the revised local contract was essentially a re-apportionment of those improvements.

Bikathon Slated For Handicapped

The "Wheels for Easter Seals Bikathon" June 4 will extend over three routes originating from Upton junior high school, St. Joseph, according to Raemon F. German, chairman of the event. German said the bikathon is open to individual bicyclists and families who sign up sponsors who pledge a sum of money for every mile the participant travels. Proceeds will go the Berrien Easter Seal society for crippled children and adults.

The three routes are 6, 15 and 28 miles long. The short trip is from Upton south on Lincoln avenue, west to Washington and return. The 15-mile starts the same, then goes south on Washington to Linco road, then to Date road and return. The 28-mile ride extends to Bridgman high school and return.

German is vice president, engineering for the Construction Machinery division of Clark Equipment Co. He began his career with Clark in Canada in 1966 as a design engineer. He lives in Stevensville with his wife Don-Nee and two children, Brad and Bess.

Rabbi Asks: Can We Adapt?

By ANITA SMITH
Staff Writer

Are we going to be dragged into the 21st century by the anxieties of our urban-industrial civilization or will we be prepared to adapt?

This was the question Rabbi Sherwin Wine of Detroit asked members and guests of the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph branch of the American Association of University Women May 10 at Win Schuler's restaurant, Stevensville.

He said that there have been more changes in the last 100 years than in the last 10,000. There are over 100 new skills that all of us will need, to survive in the future in this civilization.

According to Rabbi Wine, non-recognition, aging, dispensability and temporariness are results of the urban-industrial civilization we live in.

He listed certain skills we will need to survive in the 21st century:

— Individuality. A person must be able to stand on his own two feet, be real and do things himself. Rabbi Wine said that often it is difficult for a woman to enter a restaurant by herself. So, she calls someone she might not even like in order not to be alone.

— Temporariness. "Today, things do not last forever. Flowers are futuristic in concept — they are not valuable because they bloom only a short time. Things do not have to be eternal to be valuable."

— Making friends. This is the most important skill. People want relationships that are unconditional. Friends do not give unconditional love, such as a mother does.

— Leisure identity. Most work is not interesting in our culture, Rabbi Wine said. We make money at our work but seek identity and derive major ego gratification at leisure activities, such as tennis, golf, camping, etc.

— Aggressiveness. "If you don't go out to look, you won't be found. That's the issue of an urban world."

— Dealing with "idiot" bureaucrats. "We cannot have expanding industrial economy without enormous centralization of government and its interference. People are always screaming at lower level bureaucrats but anger should not be wasted on someone who has no power to change anything." As an example, Rabbi Wine said his mother would demand to speak with the company president rather than tell the lower level salesclerk if the department store's merchandise wasn't any good.

— Openness to strangers. "Most cultures of the past taught you to be afraid of the outside and strangers. Today, if you don't want to live in isolation, you must be open to strangers," he said.

— Generosity. "Giving is a power in yourself. In the past, children born on a farm were free labor. They worked the fields, remained at home and took care of their parents. Today's parents put their children through 20 years of school or until they get their degree. Then the children go out on their own. They do not return home. In a survey, 50 per cent of the parents said they wouldn't do it again."

Asked about the present energy shortage, Rabbi Wine said he believes that our urban culture will turn to other forms of energy that have risks before giving up the present affluency.

Television is both good and bad, he said. "The good is that it brings the world into our homes, but the bad is the apathy it creates."

Food Energy Costs High

EAST LANSING — The energy used to produce, process and distribute an average American's dinner amounts to 12 to 15 times the energy contained in that dinner, said Georg Borgstrom, Michigan State university professor of food science and geography.

He invited consumers to consider, during the dinner hour, the imbalance of energy use.

Last October, Borgstrom was guest speaker at a community seminar on world food and population in St. Joseph, sponsored by the Benton Harbor-St. Joseph branch of the American Association of University Women.

Borgstrom was one of several MSU faculty members addressing "Catalyst '77," a conference for women in engineering at The Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, sponsored by the MSU College of Engineering.

Not only are enormous amounts of energy used to put the food on the dinner table, he said, but Americans are consuming far more animal protein than is needed for good health.

The average American eats 72 grams of animal protein daily, although 20 grams are enough.

Some Americans, Borgstrom said, consume as much as 120 to 150 grams of animal protein daily, while 40 million Americans do not earn enough to buy adequate daily needs and only half of those receive food stamps.

The MSU professor advocated research be done on excessive use of protein, as has been done on excessive fat and carbohydrates.

"Food production takes energy," he said, "and additional energy is necessary for the processing of food. Even more is used in the distribution and consumption, and all this at a time when we have an energy crisis with our supplies of resources now past their peak."

"The average consumer," he added, "has become the tool of the distribution system. He or she must now go to the large shopping centers and bring home the food stuffs which once were available at neighborhood stores."

Symphony Membership Drive

Lists 1977-78 Concerts

Twin Cities Symphony is currently conducting its 28th annual membership campaign for the 1977-78 season.

The campaign will continue through May 25.

Five concerts will be presented during the 1977-78 season. Robert Vodny will begin his third season as conductor and music director of the symphony as it opens the season in the fall.

The opening concert of the 1977-78 season will feature as guest artists, Patrice Rariden Sizer and Elizabeth Van Pelt Heinsen, duo-pianists. They will perform the recently discovered Bruch's "Concerto for Two Pianos."

Mrs. Sizer and Mrs. Heinsen have worked together for 1½ years since Mrs. Heinsen moved to Lakeside.

Mrs. Sizer studied piano privately for 17 years in Fort Wayne, Ind. She attended Stephens college, where she was a student of Ruth Goodsmith and Guy Maier, when he was artist-in-residence there. She is a graduate of Northwestern university.

She has studied with Alice Baron Hatch of Benton Harbor and Dr. Joseph Evans of Michigan State university. In 1972, she spent a week coaching privately with Madame Vitya Vronsky of the world renowned piano team of Vronsky and Babini, at the Cleveland Institute of Music.

Mrs. Sizer has performed as a duo-pianist for the Cathedral Concert Series, Monday Musical club and in 1971 for the Twin Cities Symphony.

Mrs. Heinsen was born in Chicago and studied with Elisabeth Moritz, famed German concert artist, and Glenn Dillard Gunn. Her performances in Chicago have received rave reviews in the Chicago news media.

"Concerto for Two Pianos" was written in 1912 by Max Bruch and was lost to the public for 60 years. Still not published, Mrs. Sizer and Mrs. Heinsen will be playing from the original score, loaned to them by pianist Nathan Twining, who discovered it almost by accident at a musical auction in 1971.

The complete "Nutcracker Ballet" will be presented by the Midwest Butler Ballet Corps for the Margaret Beckley Upton Memorial concert Dec. 3.

The Feb. 12 concert will feature as guest artist Ani Kavalian, violinist, who will perform the Stelios Violin Concerto. She has performed with the New York Philharmonic and is the winner of the 1976 Avery Fisher award.

On March 28, the Cathedral Choral Society will perform with the symphony to present Brahms' "German Requiem."

The final concert May 7 will feature the winners of the Young Artists Competition.

All seats for the ballet will be reserved. A public performance will also be given Sunday, Dec. 4.

Tickets sales realize only 27 per cent of the symphony's annual expenses. In addition supporting members of the symphony are also invited.

Categories include patron, $20 and over; benefactor, $40 and over; sponsor, $100 and over, and guarantor, $500 and over.

Frederick S. Upton is general chairman of the campaign. Howard Paxson is special gifts chairman and Mrs. Peter (Karen) Johnson is general chairman of the 1977-78 concert season ticket sales.

'Stop Smoking'

St. Joseph-Benton Harbor YWCA and Andrews university will jointly offer a Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking Monday through Friday, May 16-20, from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the YWCA in St. Joseph.

There is a $10 fee. Participants may register at the YWCA in person or by telephone and will also be accepted the first night of the course.

This scientifically conducted group therapy course helps people who wish to stop smoking with successful methods and techniques as well as professional expertise and group support, according to Carol Wick, YWCA staff.

The course will be conducted by Dr. Herald Habenicht, director of the Medical Center at Andrews university, and Bert Anderson, respiratory care chief technician at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph.

The YWCA is a participating member of Blossomland United Way.

Dinner Tuesday

PAW PAW — Paw Paw area branch, American Association of University Women, will have a dinner Tuesday, May 17, at 7 p.m. at the Van Buren County Skills Center, Lawrence.

John Hawkinson, author and illustrator of children's books and a Lawrence resident, will present the program.

Hawkinson's works on art include Pastels Are Great; Collect, Print and Paint From Nature, and A Ball of Clay. The latter used a classroom of elementary school children from Lawrence who tried out the ideas and were photographed to illustrate the book.

Fiction and nature subjects are among the 20 books Hawkinson has written and illustrated. He also lectures and demonstrates in elementary schools in Michigan and is associated with Baptist Book Stores.

Committee for the evening includes Mrs. Carlyle (Betty) Wassman and Mrs. L.J. (Vilma) Childs.

To Celebrate American Crafts

Rosalynn's Luncheon Idea

By JURATE KAZICKAS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

Dozens of cardboard boxes, mailed from places like Center Sandwich, N.H., Cherokee, N.C., and the Skunk Hollow Forge School in Morrison, Colo., are piled up in the First Lady's side of the White House.

Gifts for the Carters from the folks back home? Of sorts. Those cartons marked "fragile" contain hundreds of donated plates and glasses that will turn a traditional women's luncheon into a celebration of American crafts.

Instead of using the same old White House china for the May 16 luncheon for the wives of senators, Mrs. Carter will serve a menu of cucumber soup and Maryland crab cakes on ceramic plates created by 15 master American potters. More than a dozen glassblowers have designed special glasses for iced tea to be served at the luncheon.

Besides the tableware, 12 round tables in the State Dining Room will feature centerpieces of flowers made from cornhusks by the Shuckery and Wood Pretties Center in Nickelsville, Va., and wood-shaved flowers from the Southern Highlands Handicraft Guild in Asheville, N.C., and wrought iron napkin rings from Skunk Hollow.

The event, "a traditional, lovely ladies' luncheon, is usually without much focus," according to Gretchen Poston, Mrs. Carter's social secretary. But it evolved into something more unusual, when several weeks ago Mrs. Carter was trying to come up with an idea for the customary gift for the Senate wives, Mrs. Poston said. "She thought it'd be nice to give something handcrafted so it would be personal and special," said Mrs. Poston.

"She thought of souvenir hand-made books and then we thought, 'wouldn't it be a marvelous thing to show works by master potters and glassblowers.'"

Since Mrs. Carter got her idea, Mrs. Poston's office has become the receiving station for the precious cargo.

"To my knowledge, it's the first time that anything other than White House china will be used for an event," said Mrs. Poston.

She said Mrs. Carter seems "terribly excited about the lunch. She's really done something for this field in the arts."

The crafts people were selected with the help of the National Endowment of the Arts, who contacted the American Crafts Council, the Craft and Folk Art Museum in Los Angeles and the Southern Highlands Handicraft Guild.

Elena Canavie, crafts coordinator with the endowment, said the artisans were not told their work would be for the White House until just before the mailing date last week.

"We just told them to do their very best work and that it would be used at a function in Washington that would be very important for the crafts," said Mrs. Canavie.

The tableware eventually will be displayed at the Renwick Gallery.

There will be handmade books on the tables for each of the 120 guests. The 12-page book will contain a letter from Mrs. Carter, observations about crafts in America and listings of contributors.

RUNNING OUT OF ROOM: Gretchen Poston, social secretary to First Lady Rosalynn Carter, stands among containers at the White House. The cartons hold donated plates and glasses from around the country which Mrs. Carter plans to use when she hosts a luncheon for wives of the United States Senators. (AP Wirephoto)

Political Reporter Presents Views

By WILLIAM WEDDON
Special Correspondent

EAST LANSING — Myra MacPherson, Washington political reporter and author of "The Power Lovers," presented a somewhat cryptic picture of politicians to members of the Women's Day Conference May 4 at Kellogg Center.

Her concern for passage of the Equal Rights Amendment also was evident, as she described events she covered in Florida when the constitutional amendment failed to be ratified by one vote.

"There is an enormous amount of political infighting going on in state legislatures," she said. "In Florida, three men who control the legislature . . . very conservative . . . traded votes and it lost by one vote."

MacPherson said proponents of the ERA have underestimated the strength of the Stop-ERA forces. "They've ignored their opposition," she said. "But knowing what your enemy is doing is one of the first things a politician does."

"The anti-ERA women work 12 hours a day, have the backing of churches and write letters to their legislators," she said, adding that their representatives heed the letters.

While covering national political campaigns, MacPherson saw many families on platforms and wanted to know what they were really like . . . "behind the facade." She decided to write a book about the life of political candidates' families in 1973 and "The Power Lovers," resulted.

She recalled the night of the primary election with Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine, when she rode back to Washington on the airplane with the Muskies. He went to a battery of microphones, she went to a car waiting for her and the press corps moved on. The three Muskie children stood there, waiting alone with their luggage.

"Something sets politicians apart," she said. "A star syndrome and ego trips . . . Some are private people but most of them need a crowd around them."

"When a man has been elected, the 'fawners' keep feeding that ego," she continued. "Sometimes they begin to feel they're above the law."

In fact, she said, congressmen exempt themselves from laws they pass so that an employee at the Capitol has been said to work under conditions of 100 years ago.

"Women are clustered in the lowest paying jobs," MacPherson contended and quoted one congressman as saying women were like pieces of furniture, "all they need is to be dusted off once a week."

During her speech, riddled with caustic comments about politicians, she was aware that Helen Milliken, wife of Michigan's Governor, William G. Milliken, was seated in the audience. With Mrs. Milliken was Joyce Braithwaite, executive assistant to the Governor, and George Weeks, his executive secretary.

Both women had read MacPherson's book and George Weeks, who is a friend of hers from their college days at Michigan State university, had invited them to go hear her.

"We enjoyed it immensely," Braithwaite said later. "While you would agree with parts of her book, there were areas with which you could disagree intensely."

MacPherson lives in Washington with her husband, Morrie Siegel, a sports columnist for the Washington Star, and their two children, Michael 12, and Leah, 10.

"My husband can work at home a lot and is extremely helpful," she said. "He goes away and I go away, but not at the same time."

The author was born in Marquette and raised in Belleville. She graduated from Michigan State university in 1956 and served as night city editor of the News while on campus.

She is a member of the Washington Press club, Sigma Delta Chi, and since leaving college, has written for the Detroit Free Press, Detroit Times, Washington Star, New York Times and Washington Post. She has also written magazine articles and plans to write another book.

Tears In Muscles Problem Of Sports

NEW YORK (AP) — Young athletes engaged in track, football, basketball and other sports who complain of severe groin pain may be suffering from tears in their thigh muscles, say radiologists at New York Hospital.

The tearing injuries affect the pelvis and hips of athletes 17 to 23 years old in sport demanding wide-spreading of the legs, strenuous hip flexing, abrupt directional changes during running and severe contraction of the abdominal muscles. Sprinters, hurdlers and bowlers are also among those affected, say Dr. Robert Schneider and his associates, who recently reported on the x-ray appearance of the muscles involved.

They are called "adductors" and they help move the leg at the hip joint. They can sometimes avulse, or tear out from where they insert into the pelvic bones or leg if the leg is forced sideways or back too far when running, stretching or turning quickly and forcefully, Dr. Schneider explains.

Their five patients had experienced pain in the groin for one month to two years. X-ray studies showed changes in the bone at the point where the muscle or tendon had been ripped away. One athlete required surgery. The others were treated with local injections of corticosteroids, local anesthetics and restricted activity.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Wife Fears Martini Routine

Dear Ann: I had a very busy, successful career before I met my husband 14 years ago. He is the most wonderful and loving person in the world. I have never wanted for anything. From the outside my life looks perfect — but I'm miserable.

Yesterday I told my husband I needed to get away from the club work, the lunches and the cocktails at noon with "the girls." I told him I wanted to work from 9-4, three days a week. He said, "I don't want my wife to work. It wouldn't look good."

Our two beautiful daughters are in school all day. I don't need the money, but I do need something stimulating to occupy my mind during the week. If I stay home, someone always calls and says, "Let's go out to lunch." Then it's two cocktails, and another — and another. I've done it so many times, it's frightening.

How do I tell my husband I need to get away from the martini lunch routine, the gossip and do something worthwhile? I would still volunteer one day a week, but a change of social scenery would help me feel like a real person. — Going Downhill

Dear G.D.: Does your husband know the true facts? If not, tell him the boredom is beginning to get to you. Ask him bluntly if he'd rather have a working wife or a lush. Don't let his ego destroy you. This is one battle you MUST win.

Neat Rebuttal

Dear Ann: I read with interest the letter from the struggling young dentist who complained about his "free-loading relatives." May I say something to that smart aleck?

Dear Struggling Young Dentist: When you were young, your relatives showered you with gifts and never stopped until you went away to college. Did you ever reciprocate? NO! You thought you had everything coming.

The people you call "free-loaders" are your own flesh and blood. When a dentist starts out to practice (same as a physician) he usually sits in his office doing nothing for several months — or longer. You ought to be darn glad you can experiment on your relatives. Quit complaining. — Kenosha, Wisconsin

Dear Kenosha: Now that's what I call a neat rebuttal. If any "struggling young dentists" care to respond, I'll print the best letter.

Good Silencer

Dear Ann: I've read many of your comments about the rules of conversation but I still don't know how to handle this one.

No one wants to antagonize the offenders but is there any way to turn them off — short of

ANN LANDERS

Dr. Lester Coleman

I was dumfounded when my father, who lives far away from me, called to tell me that his doctor gives him plain aspirin to prevent a heart attack. Doesn't this sound utterly ridiculous? — Mrs. J.S., Pa.

Dear Mrs. S.: Small doses of aspirin are considered to be of very special value in the prevention of heart attacks and strokes. In specially chosen cases, aspirin is most desirable and is, in fact, the drug of choice for this purpose.

The use of this chemical is based on the idea that aspirin, in a complex way, is actually a blood-thinner. As such, it reduces the possibility of blood clotting in the arteries that lead to the heart. It is even thought that atherosclerosis, which narrows the blood vessels, may also be beneficially affected by the use of aspirin.

Clinical studies of the value of aspirin are being carefully evaluated. Not all the answers are in yet.

It must be emphatically suggested that no one should undertake a self-programmed regime of heart attacks. Specific direction by a doctor, with careful observations of the blood picture, is the essence of the safety of this program.

What do you consider to be the best method to treat hemorrhoids? — Mr. B.V., Ky.

Dear Mr. V.: I assume that the question you ask is related to the type of surgery rather than to the local treatment which is so successful for small, unimportant hemorrhoids.

Injection of small hemorrhoids with sclerosing solutions can be very effective. Many new techniques for surgery have been devised. Some of them markedly reduce the length of stay in the hospital and the post-operative discomfort.

The use of cryosurgery (a freezing technique) is another method which is finding enthusiastic supporters. The particular value of cryosurgery is that it can be performed under local anesthesia and that patients can be discharged from the hospital the day after surgery.

In fact, some of the patients are even able to return to work in two or three days after this procedure is performed.

The choice of how an operation should be done depends entirely on the recommendation of the surgeon as he evaluates each case.

Canterbury Theatre Sets Summer Season

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. — The Canterbury Summer Theatre in downtown Michigan City, Ind., will open its 1977 season June 28.

The schedule of shows from June 21 to Aug. 13 will include three musical productions, Man of LaMancha, Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, and Damn Yankees. Special arrangements may be made for groups and clubs planning day or evening outings.

The Canterbury summer theatre is housed in an 189-year-old landmark which dates back to Civil War days. Extensive remodeling in 1969 made the theatre "technically modern," without detracting from the structure's Civil War quaintness and charm.

The schedule includes A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum, June 28 through July 3; Man of La Mancha, July 19-30, and Damn Yankees, Aug. 2-13.

The 1977 summer season of semi-professional productions is the ninth season sponsored by the not-for-profit Festival Players Guild. The season is partially funded by the Indiana State Arts Commission. A resident company of actors and singers is under the artistic direction of Ricardo Gutierrez, recently appointed Canterbury productions director.

Curtain time for Canterbury productions is 8 p.m., CDST Tuesdays through Saturdays. Matinees will be every Wednesday at 2 p.m., CDST. Group discounts are available for groups of 10 or more.

The Canterbury restaurant, adjacent to the theatre, offers a dinner-theatre package.

Club leaders wishing further information or to arrange group plans may contact, Jane Herrberg, The Canterbury, 907 Franklin street, Michigan City, Ind., 46360.

'Mastermind' Sought In Widow's Death

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A man who used $100 bills to light his cigars while buying rounds of drinks at a suburban tavern is being sought as the mastermind of the multimillion-dollar robbery and murder of a reclusive grocery heiress.

Authorities say state murder charges and federal fugitive warrants have been issued for Howard Willard, 38, and a woman believed to be traveling with him, Marjorie Pollitt, 48. They are thought to be en route to Daytona Beach, Fla.

About $1.6 million was found in the possession of three persons already in custody in the case. Authorities say at least $1.4 million is still missing from the home of Marjorie Jackson, 66, who was found shot to death early Saturday.

Lt. Robert Kirkman of the Marion County Sheriff's Department said one of those already arrested told police that Willard got a floor plan of Mrs. Jackson's house from a man involved in the January theft of $817,000 from her home.

The man, whom Kirkman declined to identify, said the plan to rob the heiress developed after he met Willard at an inner-city nightclub, Kirkman said.

Willard was identified as the man lighting cigars with $100 ills, buying rounds of drinks and passing out $100 bills to friends late last week.

Mrs. Jackson's body was found by firemen responding to reports of a fire at her wooded, three-acre estate. She had been fatally wounded by a .22-caliber weapon, and detectives believe the fire was set to conceal the crime.

Police found more than $5 million in cash still in her house, stuffed in drawers and closets.

It's still uncertain how much money is missing, Kirkman said. Mrs. Jackson had withdrawn about $8 million from an Indianapolis bank in the past year and might have withdrawn more from other banks, he said.

Those arrested were: Manuel

Lee Robinson, 29, held without bond on charges of first-degree murder, arson and burglary; John Williams, 38, charged with being an accessory after the fact, $100,000 bond; Annie Young, 22, charged with possession of stolen property. $1,000 bond.

It is believed Ms. Young cooperated with police and provided information leading to the warrants for Willard and Ms. Pollitt.

The men were arrested after they tried to exchange a 1977 Lincoln Continental they purchased last week for $13,500 in sequentially numbered $100 bills. The auto dealer notified police.

Milliken Proposes Energy Department

By DONALD WOLTAT
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken, citing a fragmented approach to the energy crisis in Michigan, has called for creation of a new state Department of Energy.

In a letter to legislative leaders Wednesday, Milliken proposed the 20th state department as a "comprehensive, bold response to what President Carter has described as the greatest challenge our country will face during our lifetimes."

The governor acted a day after his energy director, Michael Divey, resigned and questioned the commitment of Milliken and the legislature to resolving the energy problem.

Milliken said energy policy and programs are "fragmented, decentralized and crisis-oriented." He demanded a central authority to pull together the state's energy conservation efforts.

"Energy must be given a position in our governmental structure which is equal in importance to the place it occupies in our daily lives," the governor said.

The proposal came in letters to Senate Majority Leader William Faust, Senate Republican Leader Robert Davis, House Speaker Bobby D. Crim and House Republican Leader Dennis Cawthorne.

The immediate Democratic reaction was cautious. Crim and Faust questioned the need for a new department but agreed with Milliken that a comprehensive approach to the energy crisis is essential.

"I think the governor's on the right step in making a firm proposal," Faust said. "It forces the legislature and other parts of government to focus on the problem."

Faust and Crim said the Senate and House already have created a joint committee on energy, intended as a clearinghouse for energy policy.

A spokesman for Milliken said the new department could be created by legislation and would require no constitutional change. But it would be the last of 20 state departments allowed by the constitution.

Milliken said the state's short-term steps to handle energy problems have been helpful. But he cited overlapping authority among the Public Service Commission, Department of Natural Resources and Energy Administration as examples of the state's inefficient approach.

He said the same problem exists in Washington. President Carter has proposed a federal energy department for many of the same reasons cited by Milliken.

He asked lawmakers to give the department these powers:

- To set up and implement state energy use and conservation plans.
- Ensure essential energy at decent rates.
- Fight for the state's energy needs at regional and national levels.

—Coordinate energy-related activities of local and state government.

—Develop programs to help and educate consumers about energy.

—Offer ways for consumers to use energy efficiently.

The new department would be the principal advisor to the governor and legislature on energy.

Daniel Demkow, chairman of the PSC, was named to spearhead development of the proposal. Milliken's timetable calls for the department to be established by October 1978.

'Disaster' Threat Is Defused

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A cleanup crew directed by state police has cleared the remaining liquid wastes from an abandoned Pontiac chemical disposal plant described as an environmental time bomb.

It took the 35 officers, private contractors and state Department of Natural Resources workers nearly two months to clean up the Oakland-Ankerson incinerator plant at a cost of $700,000.

Gov. William Milliken said a "potential disaster" had been "defused."

Some 225,000 gallons of liquid wastes were sent to a Canadian incinerator for disposal while 18,864 steel drums containing solid wastes or residue were taken to a landfill 12 miles away.

Nine Accused Of Welfare Cheating

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A state welfare worker, seven Detroit welfare recipients and an Illinois prison inmate will be charged with defrauding the state of $57,152, says the attorney general. The Detroiters were arrested Wednesday based on indictments from a Wayne County grand jury, authorities said.

Seven of the eight arrested will be charged with various counts of welfare fraud, including false applications and failure to notify the state Department of Social Services of new jobs or income. The eighth Detroit resident is 24-year-old Arnold Webster of the Detroit welfare office. He will be charged with sealing and forging four welfare checks totalling $900, authorities said.

A ninth person indicted was not identified. He is serving a four-year sentence in prison. He operated a Detroit market where the stolen checks allegedly were cashed, and faces the same charges as Webster. The indictments and arrests were announced by Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley and Wayne County Prosecutor William Cahalan. Kelley's office has been probing the county's welfare operation since early this year.

In addition to Webster, the other Detroiters arrested and the amount of money they allegedly received were Marlene Frame, 24, $9,636; Olivia Lasenby, 44, $9,123; Shirley Feller, 30, $6,827; Jeanette Thompson, 29, $9,145; Joann Burns, 35, $9,823; Louise Robinson, 32, $5,871; and Melissa Allen, 49, $9,927.

Nuclear Curb Talks Fail

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fifteen nations that export nuclear tools and technology refused to agree on a proposal to slow the spread of nuclear weapons, despite U.S., Soviet and British backing for the plan. Although members of the so-called "Nuclear Suppliers' Club," failed to reach an accord during last week's talks in London, they did agree to resume their quest for a unified policy next month. Meantime, the Carter administration faces an early test in applying its still-evolving nuclear policy. Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance is due in Tehran late this week for talks with Iran, which wants to buy eight U.S. reactors. But the U.S. government, sources said, is likely to insist that its projected extensive new safeguards cover any such reactor sale.

Vance Meets Juan Carlos

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance met with King Juan Carlos and other top Spanish leaders today to encourage their efforts to democratize Spain and bring the country into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. It was Vance's first meeting with the Spanish monarch, who came to the throne 18 months ago after the death of dictator Francisco Franco. Since then, the government has scheduled the first free national election in 40 years next month, legalized antigovernment political parties including the Communist party and released hundreds of political prisoners.

Fire Shuts Down Pipeline

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia (AP) — An explosion and fire at one of Saudi Arabia's largest oilfields forced the Arabian American Oil Co. to shut down the field and a pipeline carrying nearly two-thirds of the country's oil production, a U.S. consular official said today. The official said the fire, which began Wednesday afternoon at the Abqaiq field, "had the potential for a major catastrophe," but Aramco officials believe it has been contained. He did not know when the pipeline, which reportedly carried some 6 million barrels of crude oil a day to the Persian Gulf port of Ras Tanura, would be reopened. The explosion in a gas separation plant killed "several" people and injured more than 30 others, the official reported.

Envoys Like African Policy

ABIDJAN, Ivory Coast (AP) — American ambassadors meeting in Abidjan with Andrew Young and State Department officials are excited at being involved in the formulation of the Carter administration's new African policy. One ambassador said the administration is putting "a greater emphasis on the responsibility we have in the field to make recommendations — sometimes during ones — to Washington."

Would Lift Price Lids GOP Drafts Energy Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans are ready to counter President Carter's energy program with a major proposal of their own that seeks to increase U.S. energy production by lifting price controls from oil and natural gas.

The GOP energy "alternative," expected to be backed today by the Senate's Republican membership, would allow energy companies to reap larger profits on domestic energy production.

But according to a draft of the proposal, these firms would be subject to a "windfall profits tax" unless they reinvested the added profits into finding and developing new oil and gas reserves.

A copy of the draft was obtained by The Associated Press.

GOP leaders stress that the draft is not final and may be subject to last-minute changes. But Republican congressional sources say it is unlikely that the main elements of the proposal will be modified.

While the President's proposal aims to reduce U.S. consumption by taxing excessive use of scarce fuels, the proposed GOP plan would let energy prices rise without taxation in an effort to spur production.

"Unwise government intervention in the marketplace has been the major cause of supply shortages, unrealistic prices, excessive consumption and increased dependence on foreign sources," the draft asserts.

But the proposed GOP plan also advocates energy conservation incentives similar to those in the administration plan, including tax breaks for those who install home insulation or solar energy units.

And it calls for continued development of the controversial breeder reactor program at Clinch River, Tenn., which the administration has proposed cancelling. But it urges that a decision be delayed on whether technologies that use plutonium — such as the breeder reactor — should be used commercially.

The proposed plan also recommends that utilities wishing to convert from oil or gas to coal be given a five-year exemption from meeting federal clean air standards.

GOP leaders contend that the administration's energy plan, which would continue price controls on both gas and oil, fails to offer industry enough incentives to find new sources of energy.

"The plan will call for a balance between strong conservation and strong production" efforts, said Max Friedersdorf, staff director for the Senate Republican Conference.

Along with removal of price controls on oil and gas, the GOP plan would establish a windfall profits tax that "would be triggered only when producers fail to reinvest any excess revenues into expanded domestic energy exploration and development," the draft says.

U.P. INDIAN SITE? City Project Stirs Fight

MENOMINEE, Mich. (AP) — The Menominee city council wants to run a sewer pipe through a cemetery that archaeologists say may be the site of a prehistoric Indian community.

The city-owned Riverside Cemetery, bordering the Menominee River, has run out of burial plots, according to Mayor Harold Johnson. In order to expand the cemetery, the city must drain the land and put in a sewer pipe.

But Maria Buckmaster, a professor of anthropology and archaeology who has studied the land for the last three summers, says some of the relics found there date back as far as 2000 B.C.

The Northern Michigan University professor says she found large pits where Indians stored food, pottery, stonework and tools. She has also discovered that this western Upper Peninsula region had a high-density population at one time.

"This is one of the largest prehistoric sites north of Milwaukee," Prof. Buckmaster said Wednesday. The Indians there were members of the Algonquin-speaking groups, she said.

Johnson said the city's cemetery board and the Menominee Historical Society had scheduled a meeting in the next few days, but he added the city council would select a bid for the drainage work on Monday. City officials said once the bid is chosen, construction can begin immediately.

Johnson said he did not understand why there was such a furor over preserving the area right now. "It's been this way for years," he said. "Now we want to expand the cemetery and they want to do something. Well, why didn't they do something 10 years ago?"

He said 125 new burial sites would be added to the city cemetery if the land were drained. The lowest bid received for the work was $38,000, he said.

No human remains have been found in the area, according to Johnson, and that could exempt the area from a state statute banning excavation or disturbances of burial sites.

The area to be drained for immediate use is adjacent to the present cemetery. A drainage system would go from the drained land to the river. That area, where the pipes would be located, "may be a very important site," according to state archaeologist John Halsey in Lansing.

Halsey said another site inside the cemetery has been nominated as a national historic site. But the site where the pipes would be located, is not protected right now and has not been nominated as an historic site, he said.

Elesha Pastor, staff attorney with the Office of Indian Legal Services at Traverse City, said her office was investigating to see if there was enough evidence to file a claim asking for a restraining order or injunction to prevent the work at the cemetery.

BECOMES WINE GROWER

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — Dick Smothers has walked away from the bright lights and applause into the dusty world of irrigation and sugar content as a wine grape grower.

Governors Face 'Austere' Event

DETROIT (AP) — When governors from the 50 states arrive in Detroit this fall for the National Governors' Conference, they'll find it an austere event compared to governors' conference bashes of the past. Previous conferences have included cruises on the Mississippi or visits to Nevada gambling casinos. In Detroit, the fun-and-games will include a tour of an auto plant and an evening picnic at Greenfield Village.

Gov. and Mrs. William Milliken, the conference hosts, have decided not to hand out the traditional grab-bags of expensive trinkets and appliances manufactured in the host state. Instead, the Millikens plan to present each visiting governor with a small sculpture of the Kirtland's Warbler and an autographed copy of Bruce Catton's book, "Michigan, a bicentennial history." A Milliken aide says the less-than-opulent tone of the Sept. 7-9 conference is a result of past overkill. The aide says that suits Gov. and Mrs. Milliken just fine.

But things won't be totally austere. The conference headquarters will be the Detroit Plaza Hotel in the new development on the city's riverfront. Henry Ford II will host a special opening night dinner for the governors and their wives. It will be the first time Detroit has hosted the annual conference, although three of the 69 previous conferences have been held on Mackinac Island.

HOMER MCGHIE
Cites survey "snags"

SJ River Survey Runs Into 'Snags'

BERRIEN SPRINGS — U.S. Department of Agriculture surveyors have run into unexpected "snags" in their study of erosion along the banks of the St. Joseph river between Lake Chapin dam and the US-31 bridge here.

The surveying team is conducting a study which will be evaluated to determine what structural measures will be necessary to halt erosion in the area.

The study was requested in an erosion control project grant application submitted by the Greater Berrien Springs Parks and Recreation board and the Berrien Springs village council.

"I can't think of bad enough names for those people who are walking up and down the banks pulling up our stakes," said Homer McGhie, area engineer of the Department of Agriculture soil conservation.

McGhie said several stakes were carried off recently and had to be replaced at a labor cost of about $30 each. The stakes themselves are worth only about 20 cents, he said.

Other snags include tangled fishline and other debris littering the shoreline which trip the men and interfere with placing of equipment. The men have had to displace pieces of rope, broken crockery, paper, smashed bottles, beer cans and plastic cups in order to take readings or even to get a footing on the banks.

One man got a three-pronged fishhook deeply embedded in his boot, and the ever-present nylon line is a constant threat.

"That fishline is nearly invisible, hard to break, and I don't think it's going to decompose in a hurry," said McGhie. He is concerned about people who use the area for recreation.

"Some barefoot kid could get tangled in that fishline and get badly cut," he said. "I don't understand those fishermen; they drop anything, everything."

McGhie expects to spend another week taking readings for a detailed contour map.

Pointing out the gullies, falling trees and grassless spots which he says indicate erosion, McGhie said the site is classified "Critical Area Treatment" by the Department of Agriculture resources conservation development program.

"That means we do whatever has to be done," he said, explaining that the dollar limit depends upon the amount Berrien Springs village is willing to pay as its 25 per cent share of costs.

Dick Rose, soil conservation project coordinator for the Sauk Trails resource project, said the Department of Agriculture will make a decision by next spring on the measures necessary to halt the erosion and the cost of the project.

It's Up To Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress probably has exclusive authority to decide whether a state legislature may withdraw its approval of the Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution, the Justice Department says.

EROSION DAMAGE: Paul Wallen, one of surveying team checking for erosion along St. Joseph river bank near Berrien Springs, is seen in cut caused by erosion.

Rain And Snow Tainted By PCB

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A team of Canadian scientists and a Chicago professor say rain and snow are dumping large quantities of the industrial toxin PCB into the Great Lakes.

"The findings of two independent studies of Great Lakes precipitation between 1975 and 1976 were reported Wednesday to a Great Lakes conference."

Dr. Thomas Murphy of DePaul University in Chicago said about five tons of PCBs are released into Lake Michigan in the form of rain or snow each year, and about 2½ more tons come from sewage treatment plants and industrial discharges.

PCBs, or polychlorinated biphenyls, have been found in high concentrations in several species of Great Lakes fish. The chemical has been identified as a source of severe metabolic problems in experimental animals and a potential threat to human health.

The chemical is used in commercial products and when waste is incinerated it is released into the atmosphere, hanging there until rain or snow pick it up, Murphy explained.

Dr. W.M. Strachan of the Canadian team said control of PCBs in the atmosphere poses a stubborn problem because it is difficult to identify the source of the pollutant.

"For all we know," he said, "PCB over Lake Michigan could be coming from Winnipeg or Denver."

Murphy said one step which might help solve the problem would be for governments to require the sorting out of PCB materials from wastes to be incinerated or buried in land fills, which release PCB-contaminated gas.

Foundation Income, Assets Up

NEW YORK (AP) — The Ford Foundation's investment assets have increased by 15 per cent and its investment income by 2 per cent.

The giant foundation said in its annual report that stock and bond assets stood at $2.3 billion in the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, compared with $2 billion in the previous fiscal year. Gross income from dividends and interest on the widely diversified portfolio was $96.6 million, up from $94.5 million.

Cash expenditures for philanthropic projects declined to $184.3 million from $203.3 million, the foundation said.

Seniors Day Set At Camp Warren

The annual Seniors Day at Camp Warren, an outing for people over 55, will be held Wednesday at Camp Warren, eight miles north of the Twin Cities. The outing is sponsored by Berrien County Council of Churches and is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. with lunch served at 11:30, according to Rev. Arnold Bolin, executive director of the council.

Rev. Bolin said the outing will include fellowship, recreation and entertainment by Sam Read and Roy Fries on the fiddle and piano. The event is open to all area senior citizens. Cost is 50 cents a person for lunch. A meat casserole, beverages, bread and table service will be furnished. Participants are asked to bring a salad, dessert or relish tray. Reservations are not required. Camp Warren is just off US-33 at Pier road.

Area Communities Among Winners In Electric Suit

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Three Michigan communities — South Haven, Niles and Sturgis — and eight Indiana communities have won their suit to prevent Indiana & Michigan Electric Co. from ending wholesale electric rates to the cities.

Associated Press reported that a Federal Power Commission judge has ruled that an electric company may not discriminate between its wholesale and retail customers. The communities joined in initiating the suit when American Electric Power Co., the parent firm of I&M, notified them in 1973 and 1975 that it would discontinue contracts for wholesale power when the contracts expired in 1978 and 1979.

The municipalities have bought wholesale power from the company for many years and supplied it to their residents.

According to the wire service, Judge Samuel Kanell ruled that American Electric could not terminate service to the 11 municipalities in Indiana and Michigan because that would amount to different treatment for different types of customers.

The ruling is likely to be appealed to the full Federal Power Commission, AP reported.

AP said Judge Kanell decreed a public utility generally does not have the right to select which customers it wants to serve, and ordered American Electric to stop any actions which would single out the wholesale customers.

The company had contended it had a shortage of power and was unable to finance new generating units.

Kanell also told American Electric to report to the commission every six months on its power requirements, generating capacity, status of planned generating additions and programs to alleviate any shortfall of generating capacity, AP reported.

The wire service said a spokesman for the municipalities said despite the termination notice, it had never been decided who would supply power to the residents of the municipalities if their power supply was cut off.

The spokesman contended American Electric would have had to supply the power directly — at retail rather than wholesale rates — to the residents if it had dropped the municipalities as customers.

DONALD WESTPHAL
Recommends signals

Official Suggests Signal For Bangor Rail Crossing

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

BANGOR — A state highway department official recommended Wednesday that signals be installed at a railroad crossing near here where four handicapped adults were killed in a van-train crash Feb. 9.

Donald Westphal, a railroad inspector with the department's transportation regulation section, said he will recommend that flashers and "gong" warning devices be placed at the Chessie System crossing of CR-378 at McDonald.

His remarks came at the conclusion of a short hearing yesterday at the crossing attended by about 15 railroad, state, Bangor township, and Van Buren county road commission officials. The hearing had been requested by Bangor township and the road commission, which had received petitions bearing some 400 signatures asking that signals be installed.

Westphal said that once he has filed his report, any interested party will have 30 days within which to file an objection to the safety devices. If there is no objection, the railroad would have one year in which to install the equipment, he said.

James Packer, an engineer based at Chessie's Grand Rapids office, said yesterday the railroad favored the measures at the crossing, but would probably need the whole year to get the equipment installed.

Packer declined to estimate the cost, but Westphal indicated similar crossing projects have run in the $20,000 to $40,000 range. Westphal said the road commission and railroad would probably divide the expenses on a 50-50 basis.

Westphal said he would also recommend that a warning sign about 250 feet east of the approach to the crossing be moved closer to the road because it is hard to see.

The engineer said a traffic survey taken April 18-22 indicated that between 289 and 419 cars pass the crossing each day. He said there are also a maximum of 22 freight trains, traveling up to 50 miles per hour, which use the crossing daily.

Westphal said he considered that usage to be heavy.

The Feb. 9 crash occurred when the van was struck while returning the students home from night classes in Paw Paw. Four of the occupants were injured.

As a result of the accident, the van driver, Carl Friel, 35, Lawrence, has been charged with four counts of manslaughter and is scheduled for preliminary court examination May 24.

The van was operated by the Van Buren Transportation Task Force.

Congress Nearing Budget Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — With House and Senate negotiators in agreement on a defense budget, Congress is preparing to vote on a financial blueprint that foresees spending of a record $160.9 billion for next fiscal year.

Members of a House-Senate conference committee, ending three days of bargaining and intermittent deadlock, agreed Wednesday on the proposal, which calls for defense spending of $111 billion and a deficit of $64.6 billion.

A vote on the resolution was set tentatively for Friday in the Senate. In the House, where prospects for passage appear less certain, the test was scheduled for next Tuesday.

Defense spending, the issue that divided the conference committee, appeared for a time to threaten the whole congressional budget process.

The $111 billion figure is $1.1 billion more than the House had voted, $200 million less than the Senate sought, $900 million less than President Carter requested in February and $1.8 billion under a later semiofficial estimate by his Office of Management and Budget.

Defense spending for the current fiscal year is set at $100.1 billion, out of a total budget of $417.4 billion.

Anticipating charges that proposal would cut into the nation's military muscle, the committee defended its decision in its report to both the House and Senate.

The report said $111 billion for defense would mean a partial slowdown in foreign military sales and would require the Defense Department to spend funds left over from earlier years and to absorb part of coming pay increases. The figure also anticipates inflation below administration estimates.

Liberal House democrats, who hold the key to success of budget resolutions in that chamber, contributed to the defeat of the first resolution drafted this year and said they would vote against future proposals unless defense spending were kept relatively low.

But budget committee chairman Robert N. Giannino, D-Conn., noting that lawmakers like the new budget system, which gives Congress a bigger role in setting spending levels, expressed optimism that the new resolution would win approval.

Defeat of the compromise resolution would halt work on spending bills and could conceivably endanger the continuation of the congressional budget system. The nonbinding resolution serves as a guideline for spending bills. In the fall, Congress will adopt a second resolution, setting mandatory ceilings.

Apart from the cut in the defense request, the recommendations in the tentative budget are close to Carter's.

NATO Adopts Carter Proposal

LONDON (AP) — The NATO allies have adopted President Carter's proposal to put their defense ministers to work on plans for strengthening forces in Europe to meet the Soviet Union's new offensive strength.

The 15-member North Atlantic Treaty Organization, wrapping up a two-day meeting Wednesday, announced the defense chiefs will meet next week in Brussels, Belgium, for a three-day strategy session.

The allies also accepted Carter's invitation to a summit meeting in Washington next May to chart NATO's defense for the 1980s in the face of "the growth in strength of offensive capabilities of the armed forces of the Warsaw Pact countries."

In his speech to the alliance Tuesday, Carter warned Soviet forces "today" are much stronger than needed for any defense purpose. He promised U.S. efforts to revitalize the alliance and called on the allies to join in the task.

The Brussels meeting, opening Monday at NATO headquarters, will bring together representatives of all the alliance members except France.

Although the French remain members of the alliance, their military forces are not part of NATO forces are beset by numerous problems, including differences in equipment, communications and tactics. He said such differences would have to be resolved "if collective security... is to flourish."

The NATO communiqué issued at the close of the London meeting also noted "there have been improvements in East-West relations in recent years," although "elements of instability and uncertainty exist."

The allies said that at next month's meeting with the Soviet bloc nations in Belgrade, Yugoslavia, they would seek "a constructive outcome which will promote better relations between participating states and be beneficial to all their peoples."

The Belgrade meeting will review the Helsinki agreements two years ago on security and cooperation in Europe. The agreements included a pledge to respect human rights, a pledge the Carter administration has repeatedly accused the Soviet Union of violating.

Strike Halts Paper Firm Production

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP) — A wildcat strike by about 500 workers halted production for about 13 hours at two St. Regis Paper Co. plants.

The workers on the three shifts at the firm's Michigan Carton Division walked off the job early Wednesday morning because of impending layoffs.

James Brehm, secretary-treasurer for Local 705, International Printing and Graphic Communications union, said the walkout began after company officials called a meeting Tuesday night saying employment would be reduced starting Monday.

Brehm said workers were told 15 employees would be laid off next week with more to follow. He said supervisors would pick up some of their work. Company officials refused to comment. Union and company officials said the walkout was unauthorized.

It was the first walkout since St. Regis took over the former Michigan Carton Co. plants in 1974. The plants make cardboard containers.

The experts say that at any one time various segments of our economy are competing for the investor's dollar. The investors on the other hand are competing with each other to obtain the best investments at the most favorable rates. If you invest your money you give up the privilege of spending it, in a sense. So in return for giving this up, the lender exacts a promise from the borrower to repay it at a future time, and he requires that the borrower pay a certain amount for the use of the money. This is called interest, and this is the way your home mortgage works.

Legislature Considering Alternative PBB Control

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Senate committee, upset at being told legislation may be too expensive or ineffective, is considering a new way of protecting Michigan residents from PBB.

The alternative was advanced Wednesday by Sen. John Hertel, D-Harper Woods, chairman of the Agriculture and Consumer Affairs Committee. The panel is debating a House-passed measure to cut the permitted level of PBB in Michigan cattle from 300 to 20 parts per billion.

Under Hertel's idea, the state would inspect each head of cattle as it goes to slaughter and reject any exceeding the state level. And it would destroy PBB-contaminated cows in the 50 to 60 herds which have shown a trace of PBB.

Polybrominated biphenyl (PBB) was accidentally mixed with livestock feed in 1973.

The new approach was discussed as committee members reacted with anger and dismay at state Department of Agriculture testimony on the likely cost and effectiveness of the bill sponsored by Rep. Francis Spaniola, D-Corunna. Hertel said he is not yet ready to draft another bill but will consider the new idea.

The committee grilled Dr. Donald Isleib, deputy agriculture director, over his estimates of the cost of the House bill and whether it would remove the threat of further PBB contamination.

Isleib appeared to request guidance from the committee on how to implement the bill. Agriculture officials have said they want explicit directions so they won't be criticized later if the program fails.

Basically, Isleib said if the state is to protect the public against all remaining PBB, it will cost far more than expected — probably more than $100 million. Spaniola has estimated the cost at $26 million.

And if the cost is to be held down, Isleib added, the state can only filter out about 20 per cent of the remaining PBB by testing herds with known low-level contamination.

"The only certain, sure way to guarantee that no animal will reach the market above any given level is to quarantine all the animals and test them," he said. "The time requirements and dollar requirements are extremely high."

That means quarantining and testing about 800,000 cattle, he said.

If the state tests only the herds in which low-level PBB contamination is known, he added, it will find only about 20 per cent of the remaining PBB. The rest is scattered among other herds, and could enter the food chain upon slaughter.

Committee members declared they and the public assumed the bill would protect against all remaining PBB.

Shale Oil Testing Project Underway

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — Dow Chemical Co. has begun testing for ways to tap an estimated 2.5 trillion barrels of shale oil trapped beneath most of lower Michigan, says a company official.

John Humphrey, research manager of Oil Shale Research Group, Hydrocarbons and Energy Research Laboratory, said Dow's Michigan division has been awarded a four-year, $14 million federal contract to test the feasibility of extracting gas and oil from Michigan's shale deposits.

About 10 per cent of the 2.5 trillion barrels is believed recoverable, Humphrey said. Oil contained in Michigan shale is 80 times greater than the proven oil reserves in the United States, he said.

"The oil is there," Humphrey said Monday. "It's not a matter of exploration, it's getting it out of the rocks and getting it out economically."

The feasibility test, he said, has a one-in-five chance of success.

The company will subcontract researchers from Michigan State University, University of Michigan, Wayne State University, Michigan Tech and the Environmental Research Institute of Michigan.

Dow already has spent several million dollars of its own money on the project over the past 20 years, Humphrey said, adding that oil extractions from shale have been accomplished in the lab but not in the field.

The four-year study will try to determine if technology can be developed to get the oil out of the ground.

Humphrey said underground chemical explosions would be necessary to break up large amounts of rock. Then the oil and gas must be heated, causing it to flow through the shale and be extracted, he said. The heating must be controlled to prevent burning all the oil.

The test projects will take place on a Dow-owned, 30-acre farm in Sanilac County. The farm was purchased specifically for the research effort, Humphrey said.

If the oil extraction is technologically feasible, the economics of it will then be studied, Humphrey said. But even if all goes well, it probably will be 15 to 20 years before substantial quantities of oil would be produced from the shale, he explained.

The Supreme Court over the years has performed some remarkable feats of statutory construction, but in the recent case concerning the Brooklyn Hasidim it set a new record for garish interpretation. Indeed, I refused to believe the accounts in the papers, waiting for the official report, and now apologize to the journalists: art reflected life. The 7-1 decision is virtually incoherent.

Finding out which Justices agreed with each other on what resembles three-dimensional chess. Chief Justice Burger's solitary dissent stands out both for clarity and constitutional cogency.

What emerges from this chaos is a judgment from the Federal Voting Rights Act properly required the state of New York to establish State Senate and Assembly districts in which 65 per cent of the population was black or Puerto Rican. The rationale for this figure — which has been carefully negotiated by state and federal officials (63 per cent wouldn't do) — was that low participation by these minorities had to be offset by enlarging the minority base.

The Hasidim, an Orthodox Jewish sect, were innocent bystanders whose community in the Williamsburg area of Brooklyn was summarily divided into two districts and, annoyed by what they considered racial prejudice, went to court.

The Voting Rights Act, they contended, was designed to prohibit purposeful discrimination against minority voters, not to reward electoral lethargy. If the blacks and Puerto Ricans didn't bother to vote, why should they be given a bonus? You can read the various opinions (and Justice Rehnquist's mind — he didn't even file one) and never get a straight answer to this quite simple question. No one could argue that the legislative seats in Brooklyn had been gerrymandered against minorities, or that black and Puerto Rican voters had been intimidated. Suffice to say a majority of the Court, for differing reasons, found the current exercise in racial gerrymandering constitutional. An Indian student suggested to me that unconsciously the Justices were adopting the practice of "reserved seats" used in his country. On the theory that Harijans ("untouchables") would not otherwise get elected to Parliament in India, a certain number of seats is reserved for them. One is also reserved for an "Anglo-Indian"! A nice touch.

Yet, whatever the logic of the decision may be, the thrust of federal action in New York raises a fundamental issue in democratic theory. To decide that 65 percent of a district must be black so a black can get 51 percent of the votes in an election is to assume that race is the axis of political decision, and is to provide the ingredients of racial polarization.

Now it may be true that on election day a black will vote black, but should this be encouraged by the law of the land? To put it differently, isn't coalition the name of the democratic game? Tom Bradley wouldn't be Mayor of Los Angeles or Ed Brooke Senator from Massachusetts — to pick two eminent examples — if Congress and the Supreme Court were to sanctify racial voting.

Let me reiterate: ethnic bloc voting is an old custom. I remember a 1960 election poster in South Boston, listing the Democratic candidates, Irish all, from Jack Kennedy down, and the slogan, "Vote Green!" (John Volpe, an Italo-American Republican won the governorship in a walk!)

What implications does this have for districts in Brooklyn? Rather than the law encouraging tribal or clan voting, I would suggest it aim at generating coalition politics. An ideal district from this viewpoint would be one in which no specific group has a majority so that any candidate — instead of sounding atavistic war-cries like "Vote Green!" — has to reach out to others. This has the additional benefit of encouraging competition, which brings out voters.

Finally, since crucial parts of the court's decision hinged on the intention of Congress in the Voting Rights Act, the national legislature should decide whether it really wants to enforce "benign" racial gerrymandering with a 65 percent threshold.

You get more work out of your copier by spending less time with the originals.

The people who manufacture copiers rate the speed of their machines by how fast they make many copies from one original. But, the people who use those machines, don't use them that way at all! Most people copy several originals at a time. The result is there's a big difference between "rated" time and "real" time. That difference is the time wasted positioning originals, opening and closing covers, pushing buttons, waiting for each copy cycle to complete, etc., etc.

The new Savin 780 plain paper copier lives up to its rating of 20 copies per minute. It gets it out as fast as you can get it in. Our machine has a document feed that automatically positions and transports each original through the copier. There are no buttons to keep pushing, no covers to keep opening and closing — no shuffling of papers. The Xerox 3100 "rated" at 20 copies per minute, the Xerox 4000 "rated" at 45 copies per minute and the Xerox 3600 "rated" at 60 copies per minute in "real" terms will on the average, copy only 5 different originals in a minute — and that's the real story on "real" time!

Trade up to the new Savin 780, today. You'll not only get more for your money — you'll spend much less to do it.

Fourteen Projects Approved In BH

The Benton Harbor building inspection department over the past week issued 14 permits for varied projects totaling an estimated $25,000.

A permit for repairs estimated at $14,800 at R.A. Mort Supply Co., 800 East Main street, was issued to Trail Kleen, Inc. The work includes replacement of interior ceiling and walls lathing and plaster, painting, and exterior brickwork repairs and installation of a metal canopy.

Permits for roofing work were issued to Garey Roofing Co., on Michigan Fruit Cannery, 248 Ninth street, $2,000; and single-family dwellings owned by Wallace Thompson at 473 Packard, $1,195; and Mrs. Carl Frazier, 165 Cross street, $945; King and Smith Roofing Co., a single-family dwelling owned by John Taylor, 775 Duss, $1,100; Don Litke, on a single-family dwelling he owns at 356 Pipestone street, $1,000.

Arendia Taylor, on a single-family dwelling she owns at 840 Highland avenue, $800; Sherriff-Goslin Roofing Co., on a single-family dwelling owned by Letcher Ward, 1236 Ogden avenue, $775; and Ambrose Washington, on a single-family dwelling he owns at 1135 McAllister avenue, $500.

Other permits were issued to V-C Sales, for new siding, gutters and downspouts on a single-family dwelling owned by Racine Davis Jr., 1142 Bishop avenue, $1,190; Guy Huddleston, repairs to a two-family dwelling owned by Nathaniel Wells Sr. at 648 Pearl street, $500; Charles Master, for porch repairs at a single-family dwelling owned by Mose Cummings, 217 Lake street, $400; Fred Marz, to enclose the front porch of his single-family dwelling, 1046 Hurd street, $300; and John Billups, window repairs at a single-family dwelling he owns at 767 Pasadena, $300.

Document Just Copy?

BOSTON (AP) — A document found in a Boston attic and thought to be the long lost final draft of the Declaration of Independence quill-penned by Thomas Jefferson is instead an 1829 steel engraving.

The verdict comes from document experts, but the Rev. James Allen, who revealed the document's existence last December, says he still believes he has the last draft.

The Rev. Mr. Allen had presented the document — which he believed was half of the declaration's final draft — as a Bicentennial gift to the nation.

He said a friend had found it in an attic and given it to him.

But according to document experts, the minister's find is actually an engraving by Charles Toppan, a Philadelphia engraver whose firm engraved the first U.S. postage stamps.

"If it's a Toppan, it's still very valuable," the Rev. Mr. Allen said in a telephone interview Wednesday. "But I still think it's the original."

Defense In Limbo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of a House-Senate conference committee, trying to sketch a budget outline for the next fiscal year, still are unable to decide how much money to pencil in for defense.

Two Student Aides Are 'Super Tutors'

Two Lake Michigan college student mathematics teaching assistants recently were named "super tutors" and presented with certificates of meritorious achievement by the LMC math faculty. They were cited for the excellence of their past two years of work in the collegemath laboratory.

According to Jerry Kulig, LMC math instructor, Kevin Nelson, sophomore biology major from Coloma, and Jane Kimball, sophomore engineering student from Watervliet, were awarded the certificates "because they have given outstanding service to the LMC faculty and students during their two years at the college."

Miss Kimball has received a scholarship to attend Michigan Technological university at Houghton this fall, and Nelson has been awarded a scholarship to attend Aquinas college at Grand Rapids.

Journalism Banquet Scheduled May 18

Area high school and college journalism students and professional journalists will get together at Lake Michigan College's second annual combined newspaper and radio recognition banquet to be held Wednesday, May 18, in the LMC Student Union. The event will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Student editors in Berrien county public and parochial high schools have been invited to submit examples of their best news photos and best newspaper front pages for competition in LMC's high school typography, makeup, and photo contests, according to Prof. Paul Gerhard, head of the LMC journalism department.

Special guests will include, in addition to high school editors and their faculty advisers, college officials and area newspaper editors and radio news directors.

Next year's staff appointments on the college newspaper, radio station, and yearbook will be announced and awards presented to outstanding high school and college journalists.

Budget Fund Reception Cool

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill to create a "rainy day" budget fund got a chilly reception in its first day of debate in the state Senate. The "budget stabilization fund" bill would put an initial $75 million aside for use when the economy slumps. It was the focus of skeptical questions Wednesday by lawmakers who wondered how the state could afford to save money when it had trouble funding present programs. The bill's sponsor, Sen. Kerry Kammer, D-Pontiac, remained optimistic, however. He said there may be "more than 30 votes" for the bill when it comes up for passage in the 38-man chamber. The measure contains a formula under which the state would deposit money in the fund during good economic times and take it out when revenues drop or unemployment soars. It is intended to help avoid tax hikes and spending cuts to balance the budget in tight times.

Game Law Changes Pushed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Lawmakers have taken aim again at two long-standing gripes about Michigan game laws — the bounty on coyotes and the lack of required colorful clothing for hunters. Despite opposition by Upper Peninsula sportsmen, the House Conservation Committee on Wednesday voted 9-4 to repeal the bounty on coyotes on grounds it doesn't do any good. And the panel unanimously voted to require "hunter orange" clothing for firearm hunters of wild birds or animals. Both bills go to the full House. Similar measures have failed numerous times in recent years, and their fate remains uncertain this session. The bounty on coyotes, enacted to deplete the coyote population so they kill fewer deer and other animals, has long been fought by the Department of Natural Resources and Michigan United Conservation Clubs. There is a $15 bounty on males and $20 on females.

GM Wind Tunnel Resumed

WARREN, Mich. (AP) — General Motors is resuming work on the U.S. auto industry's first full-scale aerodynamic wind tunnel to test how vehicle shape affects fuel economy, safety and other factors. GM originally dug a hole at its Tech Center in this Detroit suburb in early 1974 as a starting point for the huge project but mothballed plans when the industry was hit by a recession. The project, with a price tag estimated at about $20 million, is to get underway in August, the company said. Frank J. Winchell, vice president of the GM engineering staff, said the facility should be completed by 1980. Auto sources said at least three foreign car makers — Fiat, Volkswagen and a Japanese firm — have wind tunnels in operation. GM and Ford Motor Co. do their full-scale aerodynamic testing in the aircraft wind tunnel of Lockheed-Georgia Co. in Smyrna, Ga.

Motorcycle Rider Fled, Police Say

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Ricky Lee Sharrer, 22, 413 Snow road, Berrien Springs, was arrested by police here following what officers described as a brief chase early this morning.
The Berrien Springs village - Oronoko township police said Sharrer was arrested on charges of driving under the influence of intoxicants, driving on a revoked license, and fleeing an officer.
Police said the arrest came after officer Carl Manning saw a motorcyclist tip over while stopping at a flashing red light at the intersection of Cass and Ferry streets.
According to police, the cyclist then sped away with Manning pursuing.
Police said the cyclist tipped over in a driveway at 115 South Mechanic street and the driver fled on foot into a nearby alley where he was subsequently taken into custody.
During the chase, police said the cyclist did not stop for a stop sign at the intersection of Pitt and South Main street.

Allegan To Share Big U.S. Jobs Grant

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Four Western Michigan counties can expect $22 million to create new jobs to relieve unemployment, U.S. Labor Department officials report.
In addition, department officials say an expanded jobs measure will provide money to pay nearly 1,000 workers already employed. But the bill still needs President Carter's signature.
The money runs through September, 1978. It is part of Michigan's $347 million share, the nation's fourth largest, according to allocations announced in Washington on Tuesday.

Jobs under the program pay $5,000 to $10,000 but are limited to persons from low income families. In addition, the jobs go only to those jobs at least 15 weeks or families receiving Aid to Dependent Children payments.
John Bearden, an official of the Grand Rapids Area Manpower Planning Council, said Grand Rapids is to get 35 per cent of the money, Wyoming 12 per cent, the rest of Kent County 25 per cent, Allegan County 12 per cent, and 8 per cent each for Ionia and Montcalm counties.

No-Lead Gas Price Dips

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
The price of no-lead gasoline along the state's major highways dropped this week, but the price of regular fuel increased slightly over last week's level, says the Automobile Club of Michigan. The auto club's weekly fuel gauge survey showed the average cost of no-lead fuel dropped a half-cent to 67.4 cents a gallon. Regular fuel rose one-tenth of a cent to tie the record average high of 64.9 cents a gallon set two weeks ago, the auto club said Wednesday. In the Detroit area, prices for both regular and no-lead fuel was up .1 cent per gallon, with regular at 66.6 cents per gallon and no-lead at 62.9 cents.

College Bill Sidetracked

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill creating community college districts in Michigan has been sidetracked — at least temporarily — in the state Senate. The chamber voted Wednesday to send the measure to its Appropriations Committee to determine its cost to the state. Its sponsor, Sen. Gary Corbin, D-Cllo, earlier said he would try to keep the bill out of the spending committee, which has served as a graveyard for many measures. But he agreed to the move "with the understanding it will be dealt with there and be brought back to the legislature." The measure would redraw community college districts so that every Michigan resident would live in one. All districts could levy up to one mill in taxes for operations.

Arts Spending Cuts Proposed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — With the state police budget apparently safe from further meddling, legislators are taking aim at the state Council on the Arts. Two lawmakers Wednesday proposed slashing proposed spending on the arts by 26 per cent. The issue promises some colorful debate when the amendment is taken up today. The arts budget bill escaped the House Appropriations Committee with $2.6 million, despite attacks by Rep. Frank Wierzbicki, D-Detroit, among others. Wierzbicki and another Detroit Democrat, Rep. Morris Hood, were careful to retain full funding for the Detroit Symphony. But they want to cut overall arts spending to $1.9 million. Wierzbicki says that would match this year's spending with a little extra to cover inflation.

Milliken Appointments Listed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has announced several other appointments to state boards and commissions. They are: —To the Construction Code Commission for terms expiring Jan. 31, 1979, Gretchen Minnhaar of Grand Rapids; Frank E. Smith, Iron Mountain; and Clayton O. Diebel, Southfield. Wesley G. Jettama of Dimondale and Louis M. Balus, Hartland, were reappointed. —To the Mackinac Bridge Authority for a term expiring June 30, 1982, George W. Wilson of Alpena. —To the state Board of Plumbing, William E. Lowe of Inkster. —To the Occupational Safety Standards Commission, Dewey F. Barich of Ypsilanti; Francis J. Dery, Dearborn Heights; and Conrad F. Springer, Lansing.

Oakland Prison Site?

ROCHESTER, Mich. (A) — A team of state officials looking at possible sites for a new state prison is considering Oakland University land. Almon Durkee, who leads the panel for the Department of Management and Budget, said the university is one of several state-owned properties in Oakland County under study. Another site in the county is the area around the Clinton Valley Center, a state hospital in Pontiac, he said. Rep. Gary Owen, D-Ypsilanti and a member of the committee, has said Oakland County has been chosen as a possible prison site because of a campaign by county Prosecutor L. Brooks Patterson to reform the parole system. If enacted, Patterson's plan ultimately would force an expansion of the state's prison system. Oakland University officials on Tuesday said they were sympathetic to the need for a new prison but they did not believe the state had the authority to use their vacant land.

Fish Goiters On Rise

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A Canadian cancer researcher says rising pollution levels might be the cause for an alarming increase in goiters and tumors in Great Lakes fish in the past few years. The finding was reported by Dr. Ron Sostegard of the University of Guelph, Ont. He said his study shows the most severe cases of goiters and tumors were found in waters adjacent to large cities. This suggests a relationship to industrial or municipal waste discharges, Sostegard told delegates to the 20th annual Conference on Great Lakes Research. The occurrence of goiters, or abnormal swelling of thyroid glands, more than doubled between 1973 and 1976 in samples of Coho salmon taken from Lakes Erie, Ontario and Michigan, he said.

Park Access Funds Sought

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Highway Commission Wednesday has asked the legislature to appropriate $1 million a year from the Motor Vehicle Highway Fund to improve access routes to state parks and recreation areas. Local and county governments have been building and rebuilding roads to the areas at their own expense since the commission — directed by law to provide access — found "more critical needs throughout the state," a spokesman said. Now, the commission thinks the state should help local governments shoulder the cost. Its proposal would form a fund of $1 million a year which would be available to governments needing to improve access routes.

Janitor Wins $1 Million Suit

DETROIT (AP) — Genomycin and neomycin don't mix, and a Detroit janitor has been awarded $1 million because doctors at Henry Ford Hospital gave him both antibiotics during a 1971 hip operation. The janitor, Fred E. Hutchins Jr., contended in a malpractice suit he lost most of his hearing because of the error. His estranged wife, Betty, was awarded $75,000. Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Charles Kaufman said the jury award was the largest ever made in the county in a loss of hearing case. The couple contended the loss of Hutchins' hearing affected his ability to work, his personality and his relationship with his wife and children. The hospital admitted it made a mistake. Hutchins testified his deafness cost him the love and companionship of his wife.

Pollution Hearing Friday

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A Circuit Court hearing is scheduled Friday on efforts by city officials to close a metal plating plant accused of polluting Grand Rapids sewers. City officials want an injunction halting operations of Superior Metal Finishing Co. until the firm installs a treatment system meeting minimum discharge standards. The firm has been charged with 33 misdemeanors in connection with discharges of chromium, zinc and cyanide into city sewers. City officials contend the discharges far exceed both city and state standards.

It'll Be Computerized

DETROIT (AP) — An electronic traffic detection and control system will give Detroit in five years the largest and most complete computerized freeway system in the nation, say state highway officials. The Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation is moving ahead with plans for the traffic system on all 65 miles of the city's freeway network, said spokesman Thomas Shawver.

UNCOOKED GOOSE: Two of Detroit's polar bears got unexpected spot of variety in their diet on Tuesday when couple of curious Canadian geese wandered into bears' compound. Mistake was fatal for one goose, which was unceremoniously grabbed and beheaded by one of the bears. While bears argued over possession of big bird, other bear hasty retreat. Dozens of onlookers gathered at compound while arctic native made short snack of goose. (CP Wirephoto)

Sisters Cleared Of Larceny Charge But One Now Faces Forgery Count

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Barren
PAW PAW — A Hartford woman was cleared of one charge Wednesday in Seventh district court, only to be arraigned on another.
Judge William C. Buhl dismissed charges of larceny by conversion against Sharon Fuller Mullins, 32, and her sister, Tonya Fuller, 21, both of 202 West Main, following a preliminary hearing.
Mrs. Mullins was then arraigned on a charge of forgery and ordered held on $3,500 bond after she had demanded a preliminary examination.
The larceny charges against the sisters stemmed from a complaint by a Hartford auto dealer that two women had taken a car for a test drive last week, then failed to return it. Mrs. Mullins and Miss Fuller were later taken into custody in Midland county.
Judge Buhl ruled yesterday that there was insufficient evidence to show the women intended to defraud the auto dealer by stealing the car.

Woman Sought After Fracas

By DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Barren
PAW PAW — State police here were seeking a Kalamazoo woman this morning in connection with an altercation yesterday afternoon in front of the Van Buren county courthouse. A spokesman from the Van Buren prosecutor's office said warrants charging Debbie DeGlopper, 17, with creating a disturbance and obstructing a police officer had been authorized.
Ronald David Cole, 18, Mattawan, was to be arraigned in Seventh District court on a charge of obstructing police as a result of the same melee, police said. According to officers, the melee erupted as they were escorting Cole from the courthouse back to the county jail following a court appearance by Cole on two counts of assault with intent to do great bodily harm.
According to Tpr. Paul Kinville a woman began shouting obscenities at him and a partner, Tpr. Val Gardner, when they ordered Cole to stop after a door had been slammed. Kinville said that when they attempted to arrest the woman, identified as a friend of Cole's, Cole became involved. The woman disappeared, they said.
The assault charges against Cole stem from an altercation last Dec. 16 in which Norman Russell, 37, Lawton, and Donald McKissic, 25, Portage, suffered minor shotgun wounds during a fight at Cole's home. Yesterday's fracas followed the second day of jury selection for Cole's circuit court trial.

Companies can still cut off service to a customer for several reasons, including using a false name or identity or hoarding a telephone line that should be shared with another party.

Fire Doused

A malfunctioning pilot light on a gas range was blamed by Benton Harbor firefighters for a wall fire which caused an estimated $300 damage to a house Wednesday afternoon.
Firemen said they extinguished the fire at the Clara Burton residence, 546 Heck court, 2:15 p.m. Damage was limited to a wall and gas range, they said.

Gast Fears Detroit Grab For Sewer Money

By JERRY KRIEGER
Farm & Features Editor
LANSING — Detroit and the 75 other suburban communities served by the Detroit sewage disposal system have ignored notices to quit polluting the Detroit river and Lake Erie for about 11 years. But the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency appears ready to crack down on Detroit, and State Rep. Harry Gast, R-St. Joseph, fears an attempt to make the entire State of Michigan foot the bill. The Detroit area has been labeled as the Great Lakes' leading polluter by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

Gast said Detroit historically has been able to tap the state treasury for other major needs through a tactic of waiting to budget deadline or grant expiration to bring a problem to the Legislature. He said it appears Detroit intends to do the same with its huge sewage problem. Because the Detroit sewage system serves a population of 4.5 million people, the problem directly affects half of the state's population. Politicians with statewide or national office ambitions can't say No to such a big group, Gast declared.

Gast reported that Detroit daily discharges 900 million gallons of wastewater from its Downriver plant. Less than half of this flow receives treatment and 450 to 800 million secondary gallons per day receive only primary treatment and chlorination. Gast said that 14 tons of phosphates a day are being poured into Lake Erie from the Detroit system.

Rep. Gast said Detroit water rates are far below those charged residents of other cities across Michigan that were forced to build new treatment plants to end pollution. A DNR report said Detroit spends only 11 cents to treat every thousand gallons of sewage. It added by way of comparison that other major cities such as Chicago, Cleveland and Austin, Texas, all spend in the range of 35 cents per thousand gallons.

The DNR indicated Detroit is eligible for nearly $250 million in federal sewer construction grants, and could suffer the loss of that assistance if it doesn't act soon. It is possible, the DNR indicated, the EPA could require each of the 76 communities now served by the Detroit system to build their own, separate treatment plants, an even more costly prospect.

Gast declared that Detroit and suburbs should pay their own sewage bills, and that the rest of Michigan should not be taxed double to meet their own needs and to carry the load for the Detroit area too.

Run-A-Thon Will Assist 'Olympics'

A four-mile "run-a-thon" will be held Saturday to raise funds to send mentally handicapped students from Berrien, Cass and Van Buren counties to the state Special Olympics meet in June at Central Michigan university. The run-a-thon will begin at 9 a.m. at the St. Joseph bandshell, according to Julia Trowbridge, coordinator of the local effort for Benton Harbor area schools. Funds will be raised by securing pledges for every mile run by contestants, she said.

The course will run from the bandshell across Main street in St. Joseph to Langley avenue and then down Napier avenue to the finish line at the Jewel store parking lot in Benton township.

Both runners and pledgers are still needed, according to Miss Trowbridge. Those interested in participating can pick up pledge packages from Key club members at Benton Harbor high school or from members of the special education staff, she said.

Eau Claire Seeks Chief

EAU CLAIRE — The Eau Claire village council police committee met last night and agreed to advertise for applications for a new village police chief.

The committee reviewed some applications it had on hand and agreed that the applications should be updated. It was incorrectly reported in Tuesday's paper that the council would have a special meeting last night.

PARADE MARSHAL: Fourth District Congressman Dave Stockman (R-St. Joseph) will be grand marshal of Blossomtime's Grand Floral parade May 21 in St. Joseph-Benton Harbor, according to William Starbuck, president of Blossomtime, Inc. Michigan's governor traditionally has been grand marshal, but William Milliken is scheduled to be in Japan this year.

May 18 Meet

GOBLES — A scheduled meeting of the Gobles city commission last night was postponed until Wednesday, May 18, because several members could not be present, according to Mayor Gilbert Gehrke. The rescheduled meeting is to be held in the city hall starting at 7 p.m.

"We need some type of tax reform," he said.

In other areas last night, the township board voted to co-sign, along with Hartford city council, a $10,000 loan for fire department purchase of a rescue van.

Pete Sinclair, representing the Hartford volunteer fire department which also runs the Hartford area ambulance service, said firemen will pay off the total loan by each of them donating revenue from one call each month.

Firemen want to combine on the rescue van several different pieces of equipment now carried on separate fire trucks. They also want to add a pump and winch.

Also last night, the board voted to waive the $5 zoning compliance permit fee for work done on existing buildings as long as exterior building dimensions are not changed; voted to contribute 10 cents per township capita (about $221) to the county transportation task force; and voted to cease its contribution of $85 towards the $185 fee the county road commission has been charging for installation of private driveway drain tubes.

Hartford Township Tax Multiplier Up

HARTFORD — The taxable value of property in Hartford township has increased by 22 per cent this year compared to 1976, the Hartford township board was told last night by Township Supervisor Donald Drake.

He told the board that the boost in the township's equalization factor from a 1976 figure of 1.0513 to a 1977 figure of 1.2863 raised the value of property in the township from $12.9 million in 1976 to about $15.8 million this year.

That could produce an average 22 per cent increase in tax bills, he warned.

The equalization factor is applied to assessed valuations of property to produce state equalized value which is supposed to equal half the market value of a piece of property.

Thus, the higher the SEV of property, the more property taxes the owner has to pay even if the property tax rate remains the same. Taxes are determined by multiplying the SEV by the tax rate. Drake said the township was not planning on lowering its one mill rate. The other taxing authorities covering the township have not yet made a determination of rates for 1977, although most have indicated the rates would be the same or more than 1976.

Drake told this newspaper this morning that a sales study conducted by the county equalization department showed that properties in the township were selling for more than they were being assessed at. Consequently, the county department ordered the higher equalization factor, he said.

Drake, who serves as an assessor in the township, said it is impossible to keep up with the property values because of escalating inflation.

"We need some type of tax reform," he said.

In other areas last night, the township board voted to co-sign, along with Hartford city council, a $10,000 loan for fire department purchase of a rescue van.

Pete Sinclair, representing the Hartford volunteer fire department which also runs the Hartford area ambulance service, said firemen will pay off the total loan by each of them donating revenue from one call each month.

Firemen want to combine on the rescue van several different pieces of equipment now carried on separate fire trucks. They also want to add a pump and winch.

Bizarre Attack Is Charged At Union Pier

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau

UNION PIER — Ronald Freeman, 20, South Bend, was arrested by state police from New Buffalo last night after a 64-year-old man reported he had been attacked on a beach here. Freeman was arrested on a charge of assault with intent to commit murder, police reported.

Police said Freeman was taken into custody after Swald Knopp, Union Pier, told them he was knocked unconscious and thrown into the water by a swimmer. Knopp said the man attempted to hold his head under the water also, according to police. Police said Knopp told them the attack occurred while he was walking with his three-year-old grandchild. No motive for the assault has been determined.

The cold water apparently revived Knopp, police said, and his cries for help were heard by two unidentified men who were nearby. Police said they were told the two men rushed to Knopp's side and the assailant fled.

Troopers said when they were summoned, Knopp identified his alleged assailant from a group of three men who were close by on the beach. Two South Bend men who were companions of the arrested man were not held. Knopp did not require treatment and the grandchild who police did not identify was not injured, police said.

College To Honor Clark's Phillips

BUCHANAN — Bert E. Phillips, chairman and chief executive officer of Clark Equipment company, will receive an honorary doctoral degree from Quincy college at the institution's 114th commencement exercises Sunday. The college is located in Quincy, Ill., where Phillips was born.

The honor recognizes Phillips' achievements in both business and civic affairs, a Quincy official said. Phillips was elected president of Clark in April, 1970, and in April 1973 he was named president and chief executive officer.

He joined Clark's Industrial Truck division in 1948 — first as a salesman, then as district sales manager, gas truck manager, assistant sales manager, sales manager and division general manager.

He was made a vice president of the company in 1960 and elected to its board of directors in 1963. Later, Phillips served as Clark's executive vice president, and in 1968 was named to the Executive committee of Clark's board of directors.

During World War II, Phillips taught flying in the U.S. Army Air Force Enlisted Reserve in Ocala, Fla. He attended Quincy college and the University of Illinois at Urbana.

Currently, Phillips is a director of Whirlpool Corporation, Amsted Industries, Inc., and Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company. In addition, he serves on the board of trustees of Tri-State university at Angola, Ind., and is a past president of the Material Handling Institute and the Industrial Truck association.

Phillips and his wife reside in Cassopolis.

right) are Anne Pethe, Kathy Poole, Kathleen Sipes, Janet Spilger, Jayne Thompson, Dawn Turner and Michele Wilkins. Other student, Louis Kerlikowske, died Monday after being ill with leukemia for the past 3½ years. School selects no valedictorian or salutarian. (Cliff Stevens photo)

— the Braves lost No. 17, 2-1 to Pittsburgh.

"It seemed like I had done all I could, sitting up in the stands," explained Turner, who doesn't have a baseball background and is leaving all strategy matters to coaches Vern Benson and Chris Cannizz-zaro. "I wanted to see what it's like down in the trenches."

From those trenches he got an eyeful of Dave Parker, the slugging Pirates outfielder who is tearing up the National League. Parker had two hits, including his sixth home run of the season in the third inning which snapped a 1-1 tie.

Parker now has hit safely in 22 consecutive games and is batting .437 — both major league highs. And the Pirates have won 11 in a row, the longest streak in the majors.

Bristol, meanwhile, was "taken aback" by Turner's novelties. The Braves almost sent their game into extra innings, but a long hit by Darrel Chaney in the ninth inning, which would have scored the tying run from first base, bounced over the wall for a ground-rule double. Forcing pinch-runner Pat Rockett to stop at third. Reliever Rich Gossage then retired Rowland Office, ending the game.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Montreal Expos 3-1, the San Francisco Giants 7-1, trimmed the Philadelphia Phillies 4-2, the Cincinnati Reds defeated the St. Louis Cardinals 5-1, the Houston Astros whipped the Chicago Cubs 8-2 and the San Diego Padres swept a twinnight doubleheader from the New York Mets 6-3 and 4-3.

Dave Concepcion had two singles, drove in one run, scored one and stole three bases, leading Cincinnati past St. Louis. Jack Billingham got the victory.

with relief from ex-Cardinal Mike Caldwell.

J.R. Richard fired a five-hitter for his first victory since April 12 and also drove in a run in Houston's five-run third inning to lead the Astros to a victory over the Chicago Cubs.

The loss Wednesday night snapped a six-game winning streak for the Cubs.

Richard, who won 20 games for Houston last season, gained his second victory of the season against three Joses. Chicago starter Jay Burris, 1-1, suffered the defeat.

Jose Cruz' two-run double to left-center in the first inning pushed Houston ahead 2-0.

Cesar Cedeño started the Astros' five-run third inning with a solo home run. A passed ball let in the second run, the Richard hit his run-scoring single and Art Howe capped the burst with a bases-loaded single for two more runs.

One-out walks to pinch-hitter Gene Clines and Ivan DeJesus preceded Greg Gross' two-out, two-run single in the sixth for the only two Cubs runs.

Joe Ferguson's RBI single in the eighth capped the scoring for the Cubs.

The Dodgers scored all their runs in the seventh inning. Bill Russell stroked a two-run single. Steve Garvey and Manny Mota drew bases-loaded walks and Dusty Baker drove in the final run with an infield single.

Dave Winfield drove in four runs in San Diego's two victories over the troubled Mets. Winfield had a two-run homer in the opener as the Padres knocked out Mets ace Tom Seaver after three innings, his shortest stint of the season. Bill Almon's two-run single helped Randy Jones to victory in the second game.

Bill Madlock's two-run homer in the fourth inning snapped a

NEW YORK (AP) — In some musty safe there lies a contract for Norton vs. Ali No. 4.

"We've signed the contract, Ali has signed the contract, and we're counting heavily on it," said Bob Biron, manager of Ken Norton. "We expect to get Ali before the end of the year."

Biron was very evasive about the details of the contract Wednesday night, shortly after Norton had destroyed highly-regarded Duane Bobick.

And when Norton was asked about it, he replied, "You'll have to talk with my manager. He handles all those details."

But it was clear that a fourth fight with the world heavyweight champion was in the forefront of Norton's thinking.

"My attitude about it is $2½ million and the crown," said Norton. "Of course, Ali will get most of the money."

The fight is rumored for September in Rio de Janeiro.

Norton, weighing 222½ pounds, came out swinging. His first punch, a right, caught Bobick in the throat, and that was it. A couple more rights landed, and Bobick toppled to the canvas. He reached his feet at the count of nine, but referee Petey Della stopped the contest, 36 seconds into the first round.

"I felt he would apply more pressure early," said Norton, "but he wasn't that aggressive, so I decided to take action."

Bobick, at 26 five years younger than Norton, addressed the press after the fight in a squeaky, crackling voice.

"After I got hit in the throat," Bobick said, "I couldn't do anything. I'm a slow starter anyway, and he just came out barreling for me."

Besides the throat punch, Norton caught Bobick with several overhand rights to the head, an uppercut and a heavy body shot.

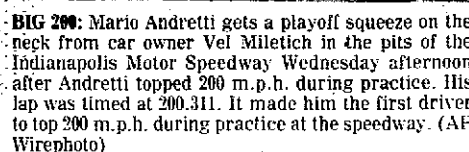

"There'll be another day for me," said Bobick, who weighed 215½. "Sure I'd like to fight Norton again, but I don't think he wants me right now. He wants that title."

Bobick said he was ready to continue after the knockdown. "I felt I was ready to go on. I was a little wobbly, but everything was clear," he said. "But the referee said no. I'm not knocking the referee. It was his decision."

Norton still contends he won his last fight with Ali, a disputed decision that went to the champion last September at Yankee Stadium. In his three meetings with Ali, he won once and lost two close decisions. Norton's record is 38-4 with 31 knockouts.

A fourth Ali fight reportedly would be worth $12 million to the fighters, $10 million to Ali and $2 million to Norton.

As for Bobick, Norton agreed this did not spell his end. "Duane is very young and he's got a good record," Norton said. "He'll get together with Eddie Futch and decide what to do. We haven't heard the last of Duane Bobick."

Oakland's Mitchell Page is making American League pitchers rewrite the book.
And as far as Boston pitcher Ferguson Jenkins is concerned, you can include the A's Wayne Gross and Earl Williams.
"I went to slow stuff in the fifth inning," said Jenkins, "but by then it was too late."
Jenkins gave up only five hits, but three were home runs by Page. Gross and Williams as Oakland downed the Red Sox 3-1 Wednesday.

In other AL games Wednesday, Cleveland clipped Milwaukee 4-3. Detroit stopped Minnesota 8-3. The Chicago White Sox nipped Texas 4-3 in 10 innings. Seattle defeated the Yankees 5-2 and California blanked Baltimore 6-0.

Paul Hradek's sacrifice fly scored Frank Duffy from third and lifted Cleveland to its third straight victory over Milwaukee. Wayne Garland, a free agent who signed a 10-year, $2.3 million contract with the Indians, scattered eight hits in eight innings, including a homer to Von Joshua, in winning his first game of the season after four losses.

Detroit snapped Minnesota's four-game winning streak with a 7-4-blower attack, handling Geoff Zahn his first loss after five straight victories.

Rookies Phil Mankowski and Mark Wagner led off the fourth inning with consecutive homers, sending Zahn to the showers. Ben Oglivie and Milt May also homered in the Tigers' 12-hit attack.

Chet Lemon singled home

Richie Zisk in the 10th inning to hand the White Sox their win.

Chris Knapp, 4-1, hurled a six-hitter while the White Sox were shelling three Rangers' pitchers for 10 hits. Paul Lindblad, 1-2, the second Texas pitcher, took the loss.

With one out in the top of the 10th, Zisk singled. He raced to third on a single by Jim Spencer, helped by a poor throw from leftfielder Claudell Washington.

Adrian Devine then came on in relief of Lindblad and intentionally walked pinch-hitter Lamar Johnson to load the bases. Lemon, who earlier homered, then crucked a solid single to center to send Zisk home with the winning run.

St. Joseph's Knapp fanned four and walked only one in going the distance for the first time this year. Knapp is now +1.

Enrique Romo tossed 2 2/3 innings of shutout relief as Seattle snapped a seven-game losing streak and downed the New York Yankees. Both Yankee runs came on Reggie Jackson's fifth homer of the season in the first inning.

The Mariners used two bloop hits and an error by Koser Ken Holtzman to score their runs.

Bobby Bonds, Don Baylor and Ron Jackson slammed consecutive home runs and Frank Tanana scattered six hits, leading California over Baltimore.

Tanana, 5-1, hurtled his second shutout of the season, striking out seven and walking none, as THREE OAKS — The record assault of this year's area sprinters continued here Wednesday afternoon.

New Buffalo's Mark D'Amato leaped into fifth place on the all-time honor roll with a blazing time of 9.8 seconds in this D'Amato's previous best this year had been 10.0. But Wednesday night he was ready. "I told the kids before the meet that we wouldn't go for team score in the meet," New Buffalo coach Phil Noss said.

"It the first time we've been on a good track for a while and we took him off of the relays so he could shoot for the record. He was ready to run. Mark didn't get a fast start. He jumped the gun the first time so he had to hold back the second time."

D'Amato bumped three-runners from the list who had been tied for fifth at 9.8, including Benton Harbor's Bert Copeland. Copeland ran his brilliant 100 in 1941. Tom Reid of Lakeshore and Bill Kaynor of Niles had run 9.8 100s in 1962 and 1963, respectively.

D'Amato was the second runner to leap into the all-time honor roll this week. Benton Harbor's Mavereck Burton set the new southwestern Michigan record with a clocking of 9.8 Tuesday at Battle Creek.

Pro Playoffs

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — It took three attempts, but the Saginaw Gears finally delivered the goods to their trophy-hungry International Hockey League fans after a two-goal performance Wednesday night from Stu Irving.

Before a sellout crowd of 5,463, plus another 800 watching closed circuit television, the Gears scored a lopsided 3-0 shutout over the Toledo Goddiggers and captured the coveted TURNER Cup. It was their fourth triumph in the best-of-seven playoff series with Toledo.

Leftwinger Irving slammed in his goals in the third period. The other tallies came from Marcel Comeau, Dave Westman and Wayne Zuk.

Gears goalie Mario Lessard blocked 26 shots, Toledo's Pierre Chagnon faced 40 shots on goal.

"I feel great," said Saginaw manager-coach Don Perry. "We beat a team that played an ineligible player. We beat a team that had an extra man, and - we beat a team that defeated us in our last good shot at the cup two years ago."

Perry was referring to the discovery, after the playoffs started, that Toledo's Tom Mellor was over the age limit.

Lucas Directs Rocket Win Over 76ers

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Rockets guard John Lucas sat in front of his dressing cubicle exhausted, but with a look of deep satisfaction etched on his face.

"It was unreal, but I just knew if I could get back to familiar surroundings I would play well and so would the team," Lucas said Wednesday night after directing the Rockets to a 118-94 victory over Philadelphia in their National Basketball Association playoff series.

Criticized for his inability to control the tempo in two previous losses to the 76ers, Lucas has his hand on the pulse of the game all the way Wednesday as the Rockets narrowed Philadelphia's lead to 2-1 in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference championship series.

"Tonight we could dictate a little more what was happening," said Lucas, a rookie from the University of Maryland. "When you get the lead, you can have something to say about what to do."

The Rockets got a big early lead, zooming ahead 21-8 with 5:39 left in the opening quarter, and it was Lucas who led the surge, hitting 10 points in the first period.

Lucas hit a driving shot for the first two points of the game and the Rockets were in the lead all the way as they throttled the 76ers' running game.

"We didn't do anything different, we just played our game," Rockets Coach Tom Nissalke said. "We were able to keep Mo (Moses Malone) and Kevin (Kunnert) in there for a while. Usually Kunnert will wind up with five fouls and we have to get him out."

But this time Kunnert didn't get into foul trouble, and in fact, played a key role in keeping the 76ers from getting their fast break going.

"Kunnert was hitting that little short jump shot over the middle and C.J. (Caldwell Jones) was having to go over and guard him," 76ers forward George McGinnis said. "That keeps us from getting the fast break going."

The Rockets led 33-20 by the end of the first quarter and expanded the margin to 59-41 by halftime.

Philadelphia made one run at the Rockets, outscoring Houston 15-3 in the first four minutes of the third quarter. Then Calvin Murphy hit two straight baskets. Malone scored on a dunk and two free throws, and the Rockets again were out of trouble.

Malone was the dominant force in the game for the Rockets, scoring 30 points and grabbing 25 rebounds. Malone was silent after the game, refusing a newsmen's handshake and saying only he didn't want to talk.

"We were just not shooting well," a disappointed Philadelphia Coach Gene Shue said. "We were not aggressive. They have a much better team effort. The wide spread and the rebounding in the first half was significant."

"When we can't do anything with the boards, it cuts off the main part of our game."

Julius Erving led the 76ers with 28 points. Rudy Tomjanovich had 24 points and Lucas finished with 20 for Houston.

GOING HOME: Barb Binns of Lake Michigan College scores in action in second game of a twin bill against Oakland University Wednesday afternoon at Plangger's Park. Binns beat the throw from the catcher to pitcher Helen Shereda covering home plate. Shereda had uncorked a wild pitch. Third-base coach in the background is Liz Miller, girls softball coach at LMC. Raiders Alone On Top BLOOMINGDALE — Decatur and Bloomingdale split a doubleheader here Wednesday.

But the Raiders were the big winners. Decatur won the first game 2-1 to take over sole possession of first place in the SAC baseball race. Bloomingdale came back to take the nightcap 7-3. But the second game did not count in the league standings.

The doubleheader had been suspended in the second inning of the first game Tuesday after an injury to a Decatur player left the Raiders with just eight players.

Kurt Wiese was the big thorn in the Cardinals' side in the first game. Wiese homered in the third inning of the first game to get the Raiders on the scoreboard.

Wiese also relieved starting pitcher Jim Snola in the fifth inning with the bases loaded and Decatur holding a slim 2-0 lead. He promptly struck out the next two batters to get out of the jam.

Decatur scored an insurance run in the fourth inning on a walk, a single by Bruce Bond and an error.

A seventh-inning bid by the Cardinals was stopped just short. With one out, Pat Barnes walked and Kevin Wilkinson doubled him in to trim the Decatur lead to 2-1. Jim Koepfer walked and Wilkinson stole third. Gene Allen then struck out, but Decatur catcher Mike Fuentes dropped the third strike.

As Fuentes threw to first to put out Allen, Wilkinson tried to score from third. But Wilkinson was thrown out at the plate to end the game.

The Cardinals left 13 men on base.

Barnes pitched a two-hitter and Bill Rowlinson slammed a three-run homer to spark Bloomingdale to the second-game win.

Bears Post Victory

St. Joseph's baseball team scored three runs in the fourth, and added four more in the sixth to topple Kalamazoo Central 7-5 in a non-league game Wednesday.

Battle Creek Lakeview blanked Niles 5-0 in a Big Seven tilt.

Kevin Wheeler picked up the win for the Bears with relief help from Scott Dennison.

Kurt Felgner, Paul Knuth and Herb Ross each collected two hits for St. Joe, now 9-5 overall.

Niles got just four hits in its loss to Lakeview. The winners scored once in the fourth and broke the game open with four more in the sixth. Niles committed six errors to make all five runs unearned.

Car, Home Insurance Next On Employee Benefit List?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The next significant employee benefits to be added to a growing list might be automobile and home insurance. While no large employers have made real movement in those areas, the time soon may be ripe, says a spokesman for a firm that advises scores of blue chip companies on employee benefits.

"There is a big void to be filled," said Leonard Mactas, a recognized authority on corporate benefit plans.

Tracing the development of benefits since the end of World War II, Mactas feels that by 1980 some companies may begin to include these two insurances.

"The trend among employers has been to respond to identifiable employee needs," said Mactas. And while homeowners insurance costs might not have become painfully expensive, auto insurance most certainly has. It's a need.

Other factors are involved also, says Mactas, who heads the Consulting Actuaries Division of Kwasha Lipton, an international firm that helped develop many of today's largest employee benefit programs.

Having sustained repeated losses, automobile insurers are wary of the business, to cite one factor. And large corporations — even smaller ones — can help keep costs in line through the efficiencies of volume.

In Mactas' view, the inclusion of these insurances would be in keeping with a trend toward using the corporation as a vehicle to make life more secure for individuals.

Besides volume buying power, or to state it another way, the ability to benefit from lower group rates, the employer also has the ability to analyze complicated contractual plans and provide bookkeeping services as well.

Moreover, the tax laws are such that employers and employees are aggressively interested in benefits rather than wages alone. Most benefits are tax-deductible for the employer and tax-free for the employee.

In addition, benefit plans are believed by many employers to result in greater employee loyalty, and in general to promote happier, more secure and perhaps more productive workers.

Over the years the portfolio of employee benefits has developed from pensions and profit-sharing to health and disability insurance, dental insurance, and most recently legal insurance. Except for some life insurance costs, these expenses are totally tax deductible to the employer.

It is partly for this reason that the standard among large companies today is to pay in full for such benefits. And the result, in effect, is to provide the worker with tax-sheltered income.

Neither automobile nor homeowners insurance is now eligible for similar tax treatment, but in Mactas' view some companies might be inclined to offer the plans anyway.

"If employers can step in on a group basis I think it would be a tremendous service to workers," he said, adding that he feels Congress might then be inclined to permit employers to deduct the expenses, as they do for other benefits.

With employee benefits now amounting to 30 to 40 per cent of payroll costs, can companies afford to add more? Mactas believes so, but he adds that the greater costs will be at the expense of regular income.

"It is socially desirable for employers to provide these benefits," Mactas said, and he feels it makes financial sense too.

He concedes there is a disadvantage also in that "the farther you remove a person from the financial consequences of a loss, the more you lose control of costs." He cites the misuse of health insurance as an example.

But in his view, the disadvantages are not as significant as the social gains, and that we therefore will soon begin to see corporate plans to handle automobile and home insurance.

DISASTER PRACTICE: Watervliet Community hospital staged mock disaster test this week to help prepare for real disaster emergencies. Coloma, Hartford and Watervliet ambulance services and 16 students, acting as victims, participated in the drill. Disaster was mock bus-train crash. Here ambulance

Stockman Blasts Carter Social Security Proposal

WASHINGTON — Congressman Dave Stockman of St. Joseph today warned that President Carter's proposed reforms of the Social Security system are "a threat to the retirement pensions of every wage earner in America."

Stockman said the Administration's proposal to inject $14 billion in general revenue tax money into the Social Security system over the next four years "is just the first step towards transforming Social Security from an earned retirement program into just another welfare distribution effort."

"If the accrued entitlements of 90,000,000 wage earners, many of whom have paid heavy payroll taxes for years, are to be protected," he continued, "then it is imperative that the system continue to be financed on a strict contributory basis."

Stockman noted that the value of a worker's Social Security pension is already being diluted by Congressionally authorized payments of many types of unearned benefits such as the "81 billion annual raid on the trust fund to pay college student stipends. "If the Social Security trust fund becomes contaminated with general revenue financing," the St. Joseph Republican warned, "the flood gates will be opened and every special interest group in Washington will try to graft further unearned benefits onto the program."

Stockman went on to say that he did not think that many workers would be "fooled" by the President's second proposal to lift the current ceiling on employers' contributions to the system and require employers to pay Social Security on every dollar of wage and salary income. "The wage earner knows that the employer's share of the payroll tax is absorbed either by the worker, in the form of lower wages, or by the consumer in the form of higher prices. Removing the employer payroll tax ceiling will only mean a lower standard of living for the average wage and salary worker, one way or another."

Stockman said that the way to forestall the financial crisis facing the Social Security system "is not by increasing already burdensome taxes, but by containing the overall costs of the system." He said that this was especially necessary for the medicare and disability portions of the system, which have experienced the most dramatic cost increases.

The Fourth district congressman concluded by saying that Congress should consider phasing out certain unearned benefits, such as payments to college students, and that it should remove a quirk in the system which allows double compensation for the effects of inflation.

Brown Returns To Senate

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State Sen. Basil Brown returned to the Senate for the first time since he was seriously injured in an auto accident March 2. Brown said Wednesday he felt well. But he still suffers from his injuries — a fractured knee, broken ribs and collapsed lung. He used a wheel chair to get around the Capitol. "Only the good die young," Brown told his colleagues upon being welcomed back. "And I'll probably still be around when we get the state budget balanced." Brown, 49, is the longest-serving member of the Senate and chairman of its Judiciary Committee. He's been around for 21 years.

Carter's Sister Writing Book

She Picks Swingong Spot

Q: We don't hear much about Ruth Carter Stapleton down here these days. Is President Carter's evangelist sister in Washington? — E.D., Columbus, Ga.

A: Ruth has chosen swingong Malibu, of all the odd places, as a hideaway to work on her next book. Even stranger is the fact that her house is right next to the Seaside motel, one of Malibu's lively spots.

nowadays? Well, here's a story: The Chinese Communist liaison chief, Huang Chen, was going to lunch the other day with his close friend, Yaqub Khan, the Pakistani ambassador. Huang was about to enter the Pakistan embassy in Washington, D.C., when right next door he saw the flag of Taiwan flying over the Taiwanese embassy. He stopped and then flatly refused to join Khan in a place overshadowed remarkably well, but will have to concentrate on speech therapy now before thinking of continuing her career.

STORM SIGNAL? For several years, U.S. and Soviet scientific and research vessels have followed a pleasant custom when in the same foreign port of swapping visits of personnel and even sharing a libation or two. Suddenly, with no explanation this has ended. First warning came in the Greek port of Piraeus last month when the skipper of an American research ship saw a Russian vessel anchored nearby and invited the Soviet captain over for a drink. The reply was a chilly "no thanks." Since then, in other ports, other rebuffs have followed. On the high seas, at least détente seems to be heading into a storm.

Q: Is it true Patrick Caddell, the pollster who works so effectively for Jimmy Carter, is now using his talents to defend porno films? — H.R., Cincinnati, O.

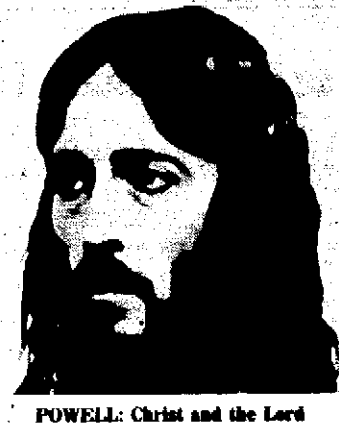

A: What Caddell's been doing is conducting a poll in Massachusetts to find out what's considered obscene there and what isn't. He was hired by Morris Goldings, an attorney who hopes to use the results in defending his client, Pusycat Cinemas, in several cases involving pornographic movies. Goldings, noting the pollster's link with Carter, says, "I think his name might mean something."

Q: Can you tell me something about Robert Powell, the actor who played Jesus in the TV special? — I.D., Detroit

A: The 31-year-old British actor lives in London and is married to a former dancer named Babs Lord. They expect a baby soon. Powell is fairly well-known in his own country and has the lead in Ken Russell's wild film, "Mahler," which didn't get much distribution in the U.S. However, American audiences should remember him as Ann-Margret's doomed airplane pilot husband in "Tommy," another Russell epic. Now with the smashing TV ratings for "Jesus of Nazareth," Powell's career is zooming.

Bilingual Education Law Violators Being Pursued

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State school officials are being asked to compile a list of Michigan school districts still in violation of a 1974 state law requiring bilingual education.

Gov. William Milliken told state school Supt. John W. Porter he wanted a report on what was being done to comply with the law, which is aimed at helping thousands of Michigan students who are not fluent in English.

This year, 57 of the state's 530 school districts have bilingual programs of some sort, but education officials feel many more may still need them.

It is estimated that up to 20,000 Michigan students in kindergarten through 12th grade speak and understand English poorly and may need some bilingual education to help them through school.

Original estimates were that about 230 of the state's 530 districts had to provide bilingual education in languages ranging from Spanish to Arabic to Chaldean.

But reports from the districts indicate that only about 60 have 20 or more students whose English-speaking abilities are limited, school officials said Tuesday.

Another 217 districts report many Spanish, Indian or Asian students but claim they are fluent enough in English, state officials say.

They plan to check on those districts to make sure their counts are accurate.

Ranato Gonzalez, director of state's Bilingual Education Office, said Tuesday some districts think the program is too expensive for them or that teachers certified for bilingual education are not available.

In September 1975, when the law took effect, no bilingual education programs existed in the state, officials admitted then, although some had begun planning. The program was unfunded by the state, and districts balked at spending their limited funds on bilingual education.

After angry Spanish-speaking citizens threatened to sue school districts and showed up in state officials' offices to complain, $850,000 was included in the 1976-77 budget for bilingual education. That provides about $80 to districts for each student in the bilingual program, although districts must fund the remaining cost, Gonzalez said.

The state Department of Education wants $3 million in state funds to help cover the cost of bilingual programs next year. About $400,000 of that would fund a special office that helps districts get the programs going.

IT'S RCA'S MOST AUTOMATIC TV EVER!

The ColorTrak System doesn't just deliver a brilliant color picture. It actually senses changes in viewing conditions and automatically adjusts to compensate.

- Automatic Color Control works to keep colors consistent from program to program, channel to channel.
- Automatic Flesh Tone Correction gives you natural flesh tones and natural background colors side by side.
- Automatic Contrast/Color Tracking lets you adjust contrast and color together with one knob instead of three.
- Automatic Light Sensor adjusts for changes in room light to keep your picture beautiful day or night.

BRILLIANT COLOR PERFORMANCE ... XL-100 RELIABILITY!

These 100% solid state RCA XL-100 chassis have no tubes to burn out. Solid state components are designed to use less energy, run cooler and last longer than tubes.

- Plug-in RCA AccuCircuit modules simplify servicing. Most chassis functions are controlled by eleven plug-in modules. Should one of these modules fail, the service technician simply removes it and plugs in a new one quickly and easily.
- Five micro integrated circuits perform key chassis functions. Integrated circuits are among the most advanced and reliable solid state devices used in TV technology.
- Automatic Fine Tuning (AFT) pinpoints and holds the correct broadcast signal in each channel.
- Automatic Chroma Control electronically stabilizes color intensity on each channel. Helps prevent oversaturation or fading of color, even when broadcast signal varies.

RCA'S MOST RELIABLE BLACK & WHITE TV EVER!

RCA AC/DC Sportables play anywhere there's a TV signal—in three different ways.

- At home, they play on regular AC house current. On the go, they play from the cigarette lighter socket in a car or camper. And with the built-in battery pack assembly (optional extra), with some models, you can get miles from the nearest power source and still enjoy your TV favorites.
- 100% solid state chassis has no tubes to burn out or generate heat, so it's a major cause of TV trouble. With a chassis of tubes, this chassis features built-in devices for cooler operation and longer life expectancy.
- RCA's "New Vista 100" tuner is designed with high quality MOSFET transistors for extra gain and better reception, even in many weak signal areas.
- Fast warm-up picture tube gives you sharp, bright high-contrast picture in six seconds after set is turned on.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Continue To Slide

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was lower today, continuing Wednesday's downward trend.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks slipped 2.21 to 924.89 in the early going. Losers outnumbered gainers by a margin of more than 3-2 among New York Stock Exchange listed issues.

Analysts said the market was being held back by concern over the prospect of an increase in the prime interest lending rate. That was one key factor cited in Wednesday's trading slump.

Today's early prices included International Business Machines, off 1/4 at 252 1/4; Gulf Oil, down 3/4 to 21 1/4, and Sony Corp., off 1/4 at 9 1/4.

On Wednesday the Dow industrial average closed down 9.24 at 926.90, wiping out moderate gains of the previous day and deepening the net loss to more than 18 points over the past four trading days.

Losers outnumbered gainers by a margin of 11-7 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume was 18.86 million shares Wednesday against 21.09 million the previous day.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .21 at 114.04.

PARK EROSION

Bloomington Set For Fund Request

BLOOMINGTON — The Bloomington village council last night took a step toward obtaining federal funding assistance to alleviate an erosion problem at the village park here.

The council signed an agreement with the Sauk Trails Resource Conservation and Development (RC&D) council which details the work necessary and the approximate costs, both estimated federal and local shares.

The agreement estimated the total cost of the park project at $12,600 with the Bloomington share $3,500 and federal share $9,100, according to Richard Rose, Sauk Trails project coordinator.

Sauk Trails will now seek federal funding for the project in hopes that it may begin this summer, Rose said. Sauk Trails council is made up of representatives from Van Buren, Berrien and Cass counties and acts as a clearing house for erosion projects through the county soil conservation district.

In other action, the council rehired Nick Rankin as public works employee and raised his annual salary from $8,320 per year to $9,891 annually. Rankin also receives medical insurance benefits.

Approval was given by the council to purchase the city of Gobles share of a police speed radar gun for $543. Gobles and Bloomington jointly purchased the gun in 1973 and Gobles has since purchased one of its own.

The council approved a plan to haul dirt to the south end of Haven park to fill a drainage grate in an effort to eliminate a standing water problem there.

A public hearing on the village budget was set for June 8 at 7 p.m. The hearing will be followed by the regular council meeting at 7:30 p.m. Both are set for the village hall.

CHECKER MOTORS

Cole's Death Won't Alter Firm's Plans

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Checker Motors has lost the skills of Edward Cole but its president says the nation's fifth largest automaker is "going to keep going."

Cole, 67, retired president of General Motors, died May 2 when his plane crashed as Cole headed for his office at the Kalamazoo firm.

Cole and six other investors purchased half the stock of Checker Taxi Co. for almost $6 million just two months earlier. Checker Taxi is the holding company owning 31.4 per cent of Checker Motors' common stock.

Within a week, Cole became chairman and chief executive officer for Checker Motors. He began commuting to Kalamazoo almost daily from his home in the Detroit suburbs as part of a determined effort to produce what Cole described as "the most fuel-efficient taxi in existence."

Last year, Checker made 4,800 cars. Most of them were taxis although the company also produces the Marathon passenger car. That production put Checker in 5th place on the U.S. auto production list although 4th ranked American Motors normally makes as many cars per week as Checker did all last year.

Checker, which has almost 1,000 workers, had net earnings of $274,000 in 1976 on sales of $41.5 million.

"When you lose a man like Ed Cole, of course it makes a difference but we're going to keep going," said David R. Markin, Checker's president and son of the 55-year-old firm's founder. "We'll miss Cole a great deal but he wouldn't want us to stop what we're doing."

Markin called Cole "impossible to replace." He said, however, his loss "leaves us just where we were, developing new products."

The Checker president described Cole as a major stockholder in the firm, but not its largest. Markin refused to discuss what may happen to Cole's holdings in Checker. He said such comment would be "inappropriate."

Teen Questioned

DETROIT (AP) — Investigators questioned a 16-year-old boy in the apparently senseless rifle slaying of a motorist who stopped for a red light at a Detroit intersection early Tuesday. Police said they had determined no motive for the killing of George Malechuk, 59, who was on the way to work when he was shot at 3 a.m.

Busy Week Slated For Auto Firms

DETROIT (AP) — Auto assembly lines should roll out more cars this week than in any other week for more than four years, an industry trade journal says.

Automotive News reported a planned weekly production of 231,836, the best weekly output since the all-time industry high of 233,795 for the week ending Feb. 17, 1973.

Automakers planned overtime at 20 plants to meet the production schedule.

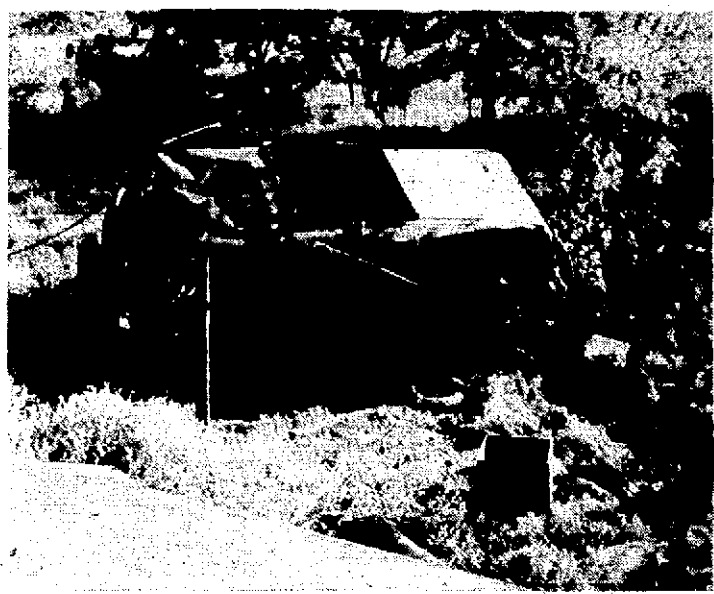

The scheduled output for the week was up 3.7 per cent from last week's 212,990 units, and up 13.2 per cent from the 185,066 built during the comparable week of 1976.

The trade journal said only one plant was closed this week. A local strike by 3,600 workers at a Chrysler passenger van plant kept assembly lines quiet for a second week.

Thirteen General Motors and seven Ford Motor Co. plants were working overtime this week.

By the end of the week, year-to-date production was expected to hit 3,801,173 cars, up from the 3,371,047 units built during the comparable period of 1976.

U.S. truck production for the week totaled 72,538, compared to 65,466 in 1976. Last week, production totaled 71,747. Truck production for the year to date was 1,281,830, up from the 1,120,555 produced a year ago.

VAN STRUCK BY TRAIN: Mrs. Marie Susan Owens, 26, Route 1, Watervliet and her two children escaped from their stalled van without injury before it was struck by 69-car freight train on County Line road east of Watervliet Tuesday. Mrs. Owens told state police of the Benton Harbor post she told children to get out of van when it stalled on crossing in path of Chesapeake & Ohio train. After attempts to start van, she abandoned it. A train crewman, Jay F. Verberg, Grand Rapids, said van was spotted on crossing but train couldn't stop in time. Train proceeded on its way to Grand Rapids.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Trucker Gets Aid, Then Is Arrested

State police of the Benton Harbor post reported a stalled truck driver called for help Wednesday on a CD radio. Troopers said they responded, had the stalled truck towed away and arrested the driver on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

Booked at Berrien county jail was Blair Brian Hartnett, 25, Peoria Heights, Ill. Troopers said a pistol was confiscated from the truck before it was towed from eastbound I-94 at Washington avenue, St. Joseph township.

Benton Harbor police said a man was arrested early today on a charge of breaking and entering the Benton Harbor housing commission office, 925 Buss avenue. Officers said they were investigating a tip when they found a man inside the office at 1 a.m.

Arrested was Gary Lynn Flakes, 18, of 1007 Buss avenue, an apartment in Buss avenue housing project.

Benton Harbor police also said Matias Valdas Esquivel, 30, Lubbock, Texas, was arrested on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon when a .32 caliber pistol was found in a car at Territorial road and Fifth street. Police said Esquivel is a farm laborer working in the Hartford area.

Thefts of goods valued at more than $800 were reported to Benton Harbor police. The thefts include:

— A power mower valued at $350 from the yard of Lee Dukes, 657 East Main.

The two-week resident session, sponsored by the ABA Commercial Lending division, was held at the Oklahoma Center for Continuing Education, University of Oklahoma, Norman.

SST Foes To Fight Ruling

NEW YORK (AP) — Angry neighbors of John F. Kennedy International Airport are vowing to close the facility twice a week in retaliation for a federal judge's order that the supersonic Concorde jet can't be banned from landing there.

"The people are not going to take this lying down," said Bryan Levinson, head of Concorde Alert, an umbrella group of community organizations opposed to the British-French plane's noise.

"We cost Kennedy $3 million to $4 million every time we show up there (to protest). I can see it happening once or twice a week on a regular basis if need be," he said. "We'll be there on the runways en masse to greet them."

U.S. District Court Judge Milton Pollack ruled Wednesday that the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey acted illegally in banning the supersonic Concorde during a 16-month trial period ordered by the federal government.

Pollack ruled that "local regulations may not override national purposes," and said test flights might lead to "a cleaner, quieter, more efficient supersonic transport."

A spokesman for the Port Authority said the ruling would be appealed as soon as Pollack signed the order making it effective. Port Authority attorney Patrick Falvey also said his agency would seek to have the ban reinstated while litigation continues, a prospect that could put off Concorde landings indefinitely.

British Airways and Air France have 10 days to draw up papers formally asking the judge for an injunction against the ban.

Following the ruling, British Airways said it would start test flights into Kennedy next month and begin commercial service by the end of September. Air France said it plans to start daily Paris-to-New York flights on June 20.

Both airlines now make commercial runs into Washington's Dulles Airport, the only other U.S. airport designated for trial runs.

A Concorde flight from London to New York would cost $693 compared with the current first class fare for a one-way journey of $574.

While some residents around Kennedy vowed to fight on against the Concorde, others saw slim chance of success. "If we have a chance, we're going to protest it, sure," said Alice Costello of Howard Beach, Queens. "But what could you really do?"

Predictably, French and British officials were happy with Judge Pollack's ruling.

"This is the decision we had hoped for," said Marcel Cavaillat, the French Secretary of Transportation. British Airways said it was "delighted" with the ruling.

But sources at British Airways said problems may lay ahead in testing Concorde at Kennedy Airport because the plane has never landed there before, and the main runway may be too bumpy for the sleek plane's stork-like undercarriage struts.

Richard Wiggs, leader of The Anti-Concorde Project, a broadly-based British group opposed to the SST, reacted with astonishment to Pollack's decision.

"I don't know what's got into the man," Wiggs told The Associated Press in a telephone interview. "We've all heard of judges who make damned bad decisions and no doubt this is one of them. But surely the Port Authority will appeal and I hope they will get a stay rather than having Concorde start flights next month."

"That could be an extremely ill-advised thing to do as the strength of the anti-SST feeling I have seen there is so great that they are risking real trouble."

"People are saying blood will flow..."

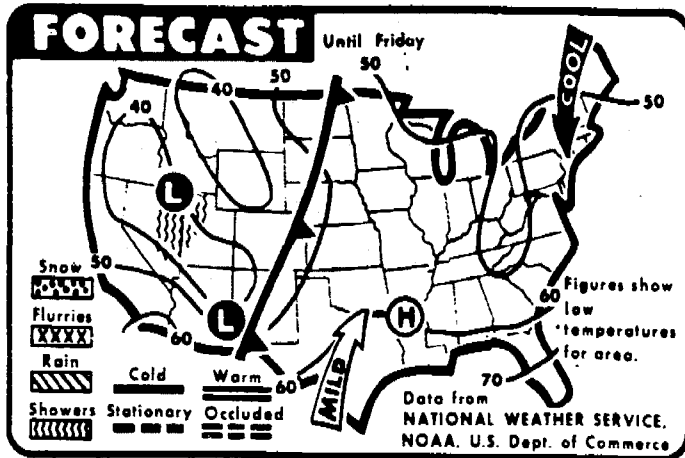

The French and British have sunk an estimated $3 billion into developing the Concorde, and the entire investment could go down the drain if a regular Europe-to-America run is not established.

In February 1976, William Coleman, then Secretary of Transportation, said the French and British could operate one Concorde flight a day each into Dulles and two a day into Kennedy during a 16-month trial period.

Coleman said at the time that the effect of six daily flights would be marginal and that the plane could be tested in actual runs.

However, the Port Authority, which operates Kennedy, banned the plane for six months pending further noise tests.

The authority then postponed a decision a number of times, which led some observers to speculate that the politically-sensitive PA hoped the federal court would step in and resolve the issue.
